Agribusiness Day proclaimed

HARRISBURG – A day to honor Pennsylvania agribusiness has been set aside by Governor Milton Shapp. A proclamation which he signed here recently named Wednesday, September 20, 1978, as Pennsylvania Agribusiness Day.

In signing the proclamation, Gov. Shapp noted that the Commonwealth's agricultural sales last year totalled some $2.4 billion. The farmers who produce Pennsylvania's food depend on a very complex network of suppliers and marketers. Without that agribusiness network, farmers simply would not be

Confrontation shaping up between PFA and social services agency

By DIETER KRIEG

CAMP HILL — The Pennsylvania Farmers Association on Monday came out in complete support of one of its members and directors, a Lackawanna County dairyman and vegetable grower who claims he is being harrassed by a social services agency.

At a morning press conference held here at the Penn Harris Motor Inn, with a dozen news media representatives on hand, PFA president Eugene Thompson informed listeners that the largest of Pennsylvania's farm organizations is requesting a congressional investigation into "questionable activities of the Farmworkers Corporation and its subcontractors. Thompson also said that PFA has filed complaints with Pennsylvania Governor Shapp and the Commonwealth's

Keith Eckel, a Lackawanna dairyman and tomato grower told members of the Pennsylvania news media this week that his migrant workers are being pressured into unwanted services by Susquehanna Human Services, an arm of the Pennsylvania Council of Churches. With Eckel were Pennsylvania Farmers Association president Eugene Thompson and information director Richard Prether, right.

Kim Weaver Wins Solanco beef show

Reading Fair honors Elwood Ohlinger family

By DIETER KRIEG

READING — A Berks County farm family which prides itself on working, worshipping, playing, and participating in community events together was introduced this week as the Outstanding Farm Family for the 1978 Reading Fair. The selection had been made Sept. 5 during a recognition banquet sponsored by the Agricultural and Horticultural Association of Berks County. The dinner was held in the Fleetwood Grange Hall with Pennsylvania Agriculture Secretary Kent Shelhamer as guest speaker.

The selection of the Elwood Ohlinger family, Mohrsville R1, as the Outstanding Farm Family for 1978 might best be desribed in the words of his sponsoring Grange, the Ontelaunee Grange 1617. Master Ray Davis and lecturer Carol Etchberger wrote the following in an introductory letter:

"We feel the Ohlinger family is the best representative our Grange could wish for because they are what the Grange is all about - a farm family interested and involved in all phases of community affairs."

Aside from their 454-acre

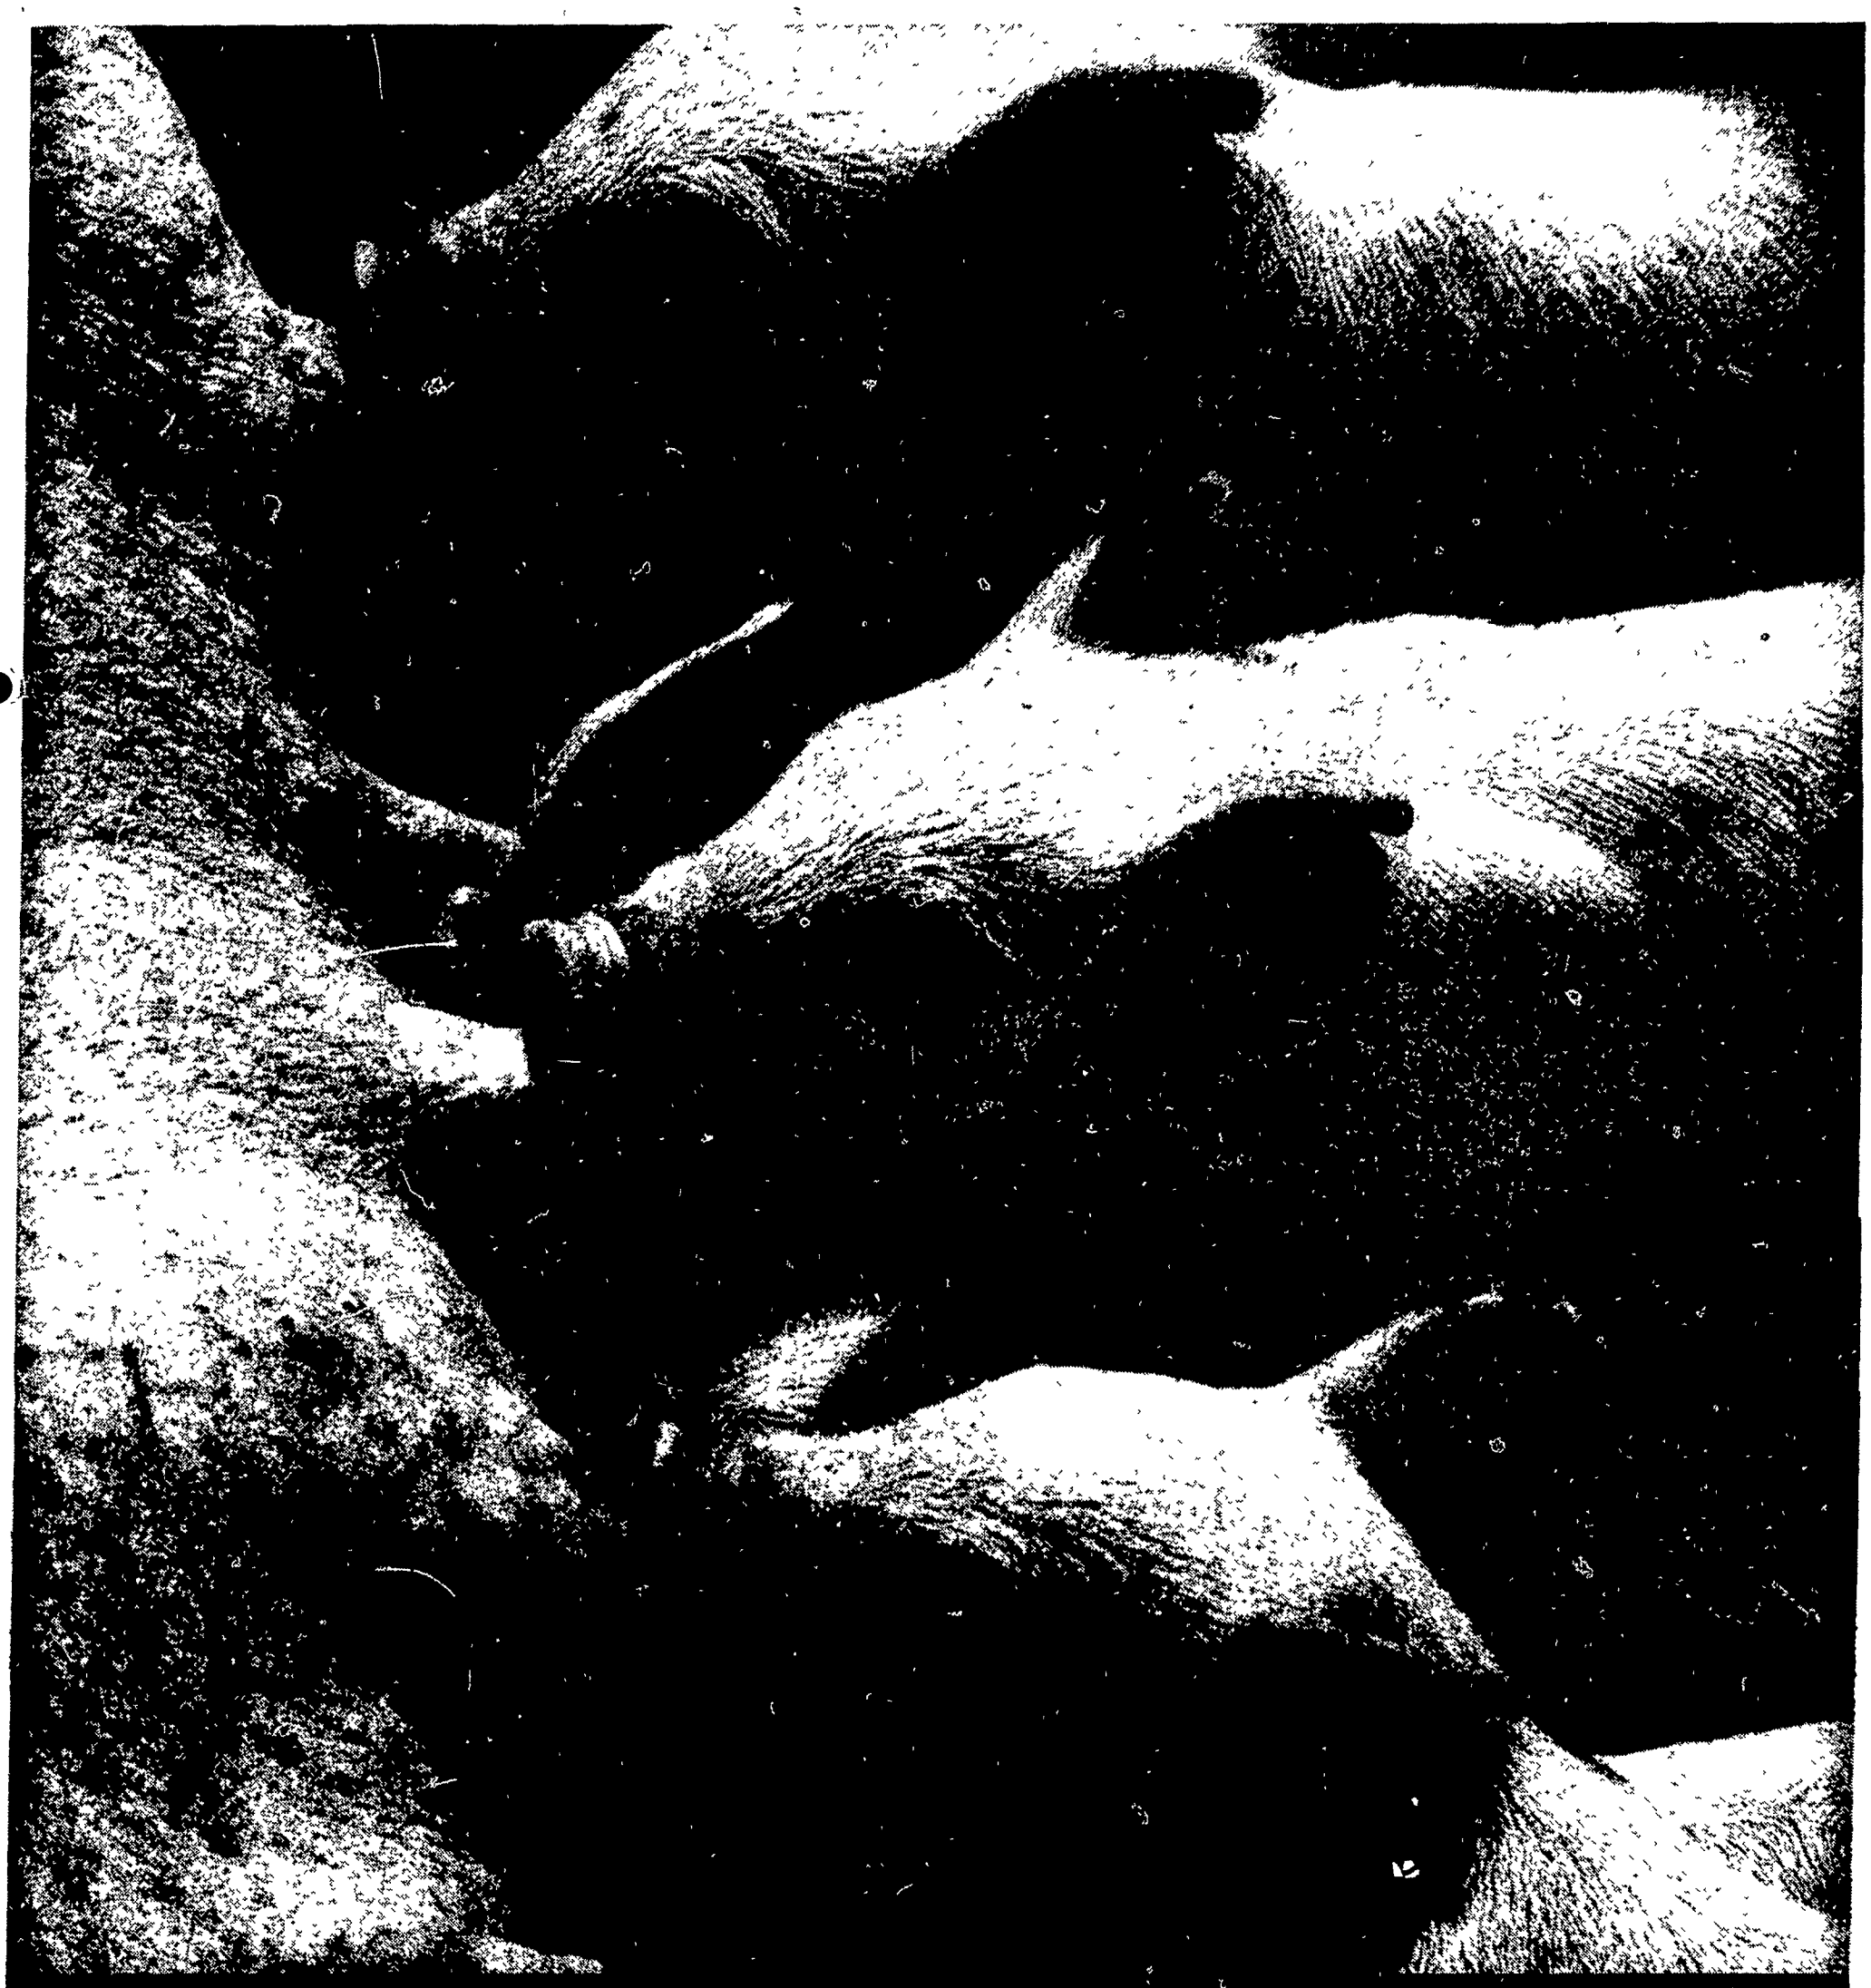
HUBBARD WHITE MT. BROILERS



From mother to market, we formulate feeds and feeding programs with your profit in mind.

Does pork production represent a sizeable part of your income? Are you ready to devote an hour or so of your time planning for a more profitable future?

If your answer to both questions is yes, you owe it to yourself to read what we have to say.

Unlike many other feed companies, we develop feeding and management programs for each individual operation.

It all starts with a Pennfield man reviewing your operation with you. Your goals. Your records. Whether you farrow and finish your own pigs or buy feeder pigs. Your management practices. The health and overall condition of your herd. And other factors that have an effect on your profit potential.

With the aid of computers, we then design programs that can improve your profits by reducing expenses, improving performance, or both.

For example, many producers who switched from a competitive program to a Pennfield program have cut their feed costs and their hogs go to market sooner. In effect, the Pennfield program is putting more money in their pockets.

There is no cost—or obligation—for this unique service. But you must take the first step by writing or phoning us. Do it today.

Purina Bio-Mittent Lighting Program

Early poultry experimental results indicated that layers did not have to have a constant or continuous amount of light during the light hours. It was demonstrated that if the lights were programmed in certain specific patterns, nearly equal production rates to a constant lighting program could be achieved.

The challenge to Purina researchers was to develop an intermittent lighting program that not only would give equal production rates, but would also improve feed efficiency. After four years of testing and modification, the Purina Bio-Mittent lighting program is now ready for both pullets and layers.

Tests show that Bio-Mittent lighting provides equal production rates to that acheived with a normal constant day length. However, in addition it can provide certain economics in electrical savings and feed efficiency. These are improvements that cannot be achieved on a program of constant daylight but are possible to have when the Bio-Mittent lighting program is used.

A LABOR SAVING DEVICE!!

EDITORIAL COMMENTS By DIETER KRIEG, EDITOR

Social service work should be questioned

The confrontation between the Pennsylvania Farmers Association and social service agencies - specifically the Farmworkers Corporation, and even more specifically Susquehanna Human Services - is an issue which should not be taken lightly by anyone. The fact that the Pennsylvania Farmers Association has a long and established record of working methodically and carefully should give merit to their complaint that some Pennsylvania farmers are being unduly harrassed by overly zealous social workers. PFA does not jump to conclusions, and the organization waited for quite some time before it decided to expose the questionable tactics and motives of the Farmworkers Corporation It's time to listen to PFA's story and the varied implications.

Questions which arise concern the work and money of our churches, federally funded public assistance programs, and the ability of the farmer to deal with his own labor situations. We should also question the purpose of assistance programs and the qualifications of those who administer them.

On the latter question, it is interesting to note that at least one of the employees of the Farmworkers Corporatioin was born and reared in a large city. His only claim to some degree of understanding of rural happenings are that he "spent Summers away from home at a cottage and he graduated from Pennsylvania State University, having studied rural sociology and related courses. While the young man who claims those credentials undoubtedly has good intentions to putting his talents to use, a lack of understanding of farm matters is clear when one considers the confrontations which have taken place at the Keith Eckel farm in Lackawanna County. (See story on page 1.)

In related areas of misunderstandings between farmers and social service groups, it is disturbing to note that churches in Ohio have contributed $130,000 to the cause of a farmworkers strike Equally disturbing is the fact that the majority of the farmworkers are willing and able to work, but can't because a handful of agitators are stopping them.

What becomes of the rights and dignity of the farm workers themselves, and their farmer-employers if self-righteous crusaders for human services thrust their programs unto migrants and others? Such a situation is as bad as forced unionism, especially when the farmworkers have clearly indicated on their own that they don't want the services of assistance agencies.

By encouraging questionable and even unwanted social service efforts we accomplish little but the degradation of the human mind and spirit The farm workers at the Keith Eckel farm, and those in Ohio, for example, are willing to work. They want to work. Some are reportedly making more than the social service workers Yet the blindly zealous social service workers are trying to lead good workers on a path of food stamps and other handouts. We already have too many people who demand far too much for way too little. It's a sin to encourge more of the same.

The farm workers who have shown a willingness to work deserve total respect. They are to be commended for their attitude.

It's fine and commendable for groups and individuals to be concerned about the well-being of migrants and other rural people. No one disputes the fact that there is a need for such concern. The question is how will social service programs be administered. On a basis of mutaul understanding? Or on a basis of "relax, good buddy, you're too dumb to know hat's good for you - let me tell you what you want and need."

It's up to each of us, as individuals, to give or cut support, whether it is through taxation, or the offering plate in church. The questions involved should be carefully weighed in each person's conscience.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W ALTHOUSE

THE PRESCRIPTION

Lesson for September 17, 1978

Background Scripture:
Acts 2:42-47;
Galatians 5:25 through 6:5;
Ephesians 6:10-18;
1 Peter 5:6-11
Devotional Reading:
John 15:1-11.

If I told you that I have in my possession a prescription that, if filled and taken, would guarantee a life of peace and power -- assuming, of course, that you believed me – I am sure that you would be willing to pay a substantial sum of money for that prescription. Your assumption, very likely, would be that what you would receive for your money would be a bottle of pills, capsules, or some medicinal formula from your local pharmacist.

If, instead of receiving some kind of pharmaceutical product, however, you were to be given a piece of paper upon which was inscribed various passages of scripture – such as those listed above – you would probably feel you had been cheated. After all, we're a society that pops pills, not scriptures, to deal with our ills.

A Pill Or A Program?

A man suffering from a very serious disease came to a physician friend of mine, proclaiming, "I'll do anything to be cured of this condition!" The physician outlined a program of various practices and disciplines which would have substantially altered the patient's lifestyle. The program included only a minimal amount of medication. Although the prognosis without this program was "terminal", the man who had said he'd "do anything" refused the program that was proposed. He had been looking for a pill, not a program. He wanted to be healed, but he didn't want to have his life changed.

The Bible gives us many prescriptions for the kind of life all of us say we would "give anything" to have. Perhaps one reason we do not take them seriously is that they seem too simple, too commonplace. In 2 Kings 5 we find the fascinating story of Naaman the Syrian general whose career is threatened by leprosy. Journeying to Israel to seek healing from the Prophet Elisha, the great general is contemptuous of Elisha's command to "Go and wash in the Jordan seven times, and your flesh will be restored..." He is on the verge of going back to Syria when his servants come to him and reason: "My father, if the prophet had commanded you to do some great thing, would you not have done it? How much rather, then, when he says to you 'Wash, and be clean'?" (5:8-14).

They Devoted Themselves

So too, when the writer of Acts spells out the simple resources which made great the life of the apostolic Church – "they devoted themselves to the apostles' teaching and fellowship to the breaking of bread and the prayers" (2:42) – we tend to dismiss them because they do not seem very unique or dramatic. Yet it was because of that simple prescription of the ordered life together that we also read that "many wonders and signs were done through the apostles" (2:43).

The prescription for a life of spiritual power and peace is no secret and it is never beyond our means if we really want it.

TO CUT CORN SILAGE AT PROPER STAGE

Corn silage can provide a large part of the stored feed needed on a dairy farm. So, it's very important to keep a close watch on the corn intended for silage.

Both the nutrient content and preservation of silage are affected by the stage of harvest and moisture content. For best results, dairymen should harvest corn silage in the full dent stage of maturity. The total corn plant at this stage has close to 70% moisture which is ideal with a grain moisture of 35 to 40%. The grain content is also higher than that of corn cut earlier.

High moisture is one problem that has troubled many dairymen in storing high quality silage. High moisture can result in loss of nutrients from seepage of juices from the silo. Too much moisture also results in a bad odor, and consumption drops.

TO BE AWARE OF LT IN POULTRY FLOCKS

Laryngotracheitis (LT), a viral respiratory disease in poultry, was a real problem last winter and spring. It's been dormant this summer, due to lots of sunshine and hot weather, but we are coming into the season where all poultrymen should be alert to the problem.

Several factors may be involved in these recent LT outbreaks. Improper use of LT vaccines is one possibility. Only the eye drop type of LT vaccine is cleared for use in Pennsylvania. Spread to adjacent and neighboring flocks is another likelikhood. LT spreads easily on contaminated crates, vehicles and clothing; therefore unnecessary visitations to infected farms could result in an LT break. A third possibility is that an LT break occurs but is not diagnosed and not reported. Keep in mind that LT is a reportable disease.

If you have any sick or ailing birds, take them to a poultry veterinarian or diagnostic lab for analysis. Preventative measures are invaluable in controlling LT.

TO CHECK FEED BINS

The fall season brings with it considerable temperature changes from day to nght. This causes a lot of moisture condensation, as we see it on car windows in the morning. This same type of condensation takes place in the bulk feed bins on our farms. It causes the build-up of molds on the bins and in the feed.

When feed bins are cleaned out, they should be inspected thoroughly, right down to the boot. Also, when you are taking feed out of the bin, keep a close watch for chunks of feed, it will tell you if the problem is there.

After cleaning out the bin, it should be sprayed with a milk inhibitor and allowed to dry. You can use calcium proprionate solution on the inhibitor.

One of the best preventions for condensation is to insulate the bin. This will slow down the temperature fluctuation.

September 14, 1978

Compared with the previous week's close: Closing prices on slaughter steers and heifers were 1.25-1.75 higher, some instances 2.00 higher. Cows were .50-1.00 higher and bulls steady.

Four day receipts 15,100 as compared 11,700 previous week and 16,200 week ago. The upward spiral in fed cattle prices was extended into the fourth successive week after "bottoming out" in mid-August; since that time prices have advanced 4.00-4.50. The live trade was characterized by an air of aggressiveness as most buying interests were in need of cattle for short term requirements, and the upturn in live prices was supported by a rather bullish carcass trade. Best demand centered on choice and prime 1100-1300 lb. steers and same grade 950-1075 lb. heifers with consignments carrying a moderate percentage yield grade 4 animals not under as great price pressure as most recent weeks. The run included a fair percentage choice steers and heifers and a moderate volume choice and prime. Steers made up approximately 38 per cent and heifers 35 per cent cows comprised 11 per cent and feeders 15 per cent.

STEERS: At midweek high time, four loads choice with end prime predominantly 3 1135 lbs. 56.00, few loads and part loads choice and prime 3-4 1150-1250 lbs. 55.50-55.75. Sheep show champions chosen at Solanco Fair

By KENDACE BORRY

QUARRYVILLE — Billy MacCauley, Atglen R1, a 13 year old member of the Golden Fleece 4-H Club of Chester County, took top honors at the Solanco sheep show, winning the championship in the fitting contest, and having the champion Shropshire ewe, and the champion Suffolk ewe. He also placed second in the senior showmanship class, and had the top pen of three market lambs and the top lightweight market lamb.

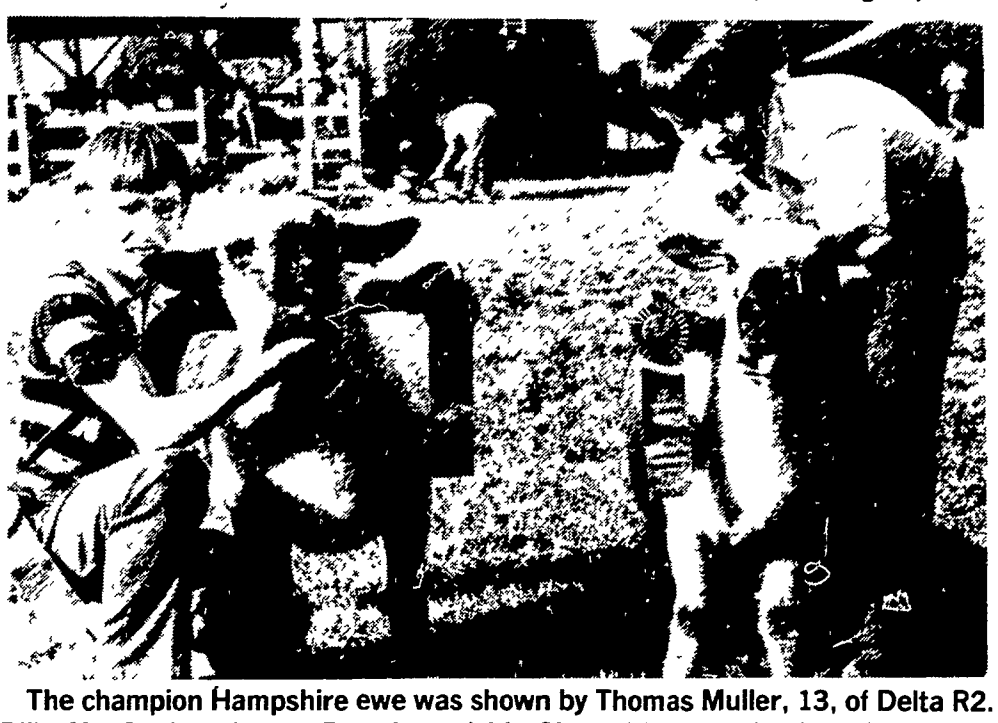
He and his sister Nancy took the top awards in all the Suffolk breed classes at the show.

The champion Cheviot ewe was shown by Julie Randall, Holtwood R2, the ten year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Randall. This was the young lady's first sheep show.

This was the first time, too, for Barbara Rohrer, Quarryville R2, to show her Southdown ewe lamb, and she took the championship in that division, placing over her older brother Gerald, who had the champion ram, and placed first in the junior division of both the fitting and the showmanship classes.

Thomas Muller, Delta R2, had the champion Hampshire ewe, with his brother Danny, taking the reserve champion honors. The two split the honors in the ram

(Turn to Page 31)



The champion Hampshire ewe was shown by Thomas Muller, 13, of Delta R2. Billy MacCauley, Atglen R1, showed his Shropshire ewe lamb to be named champion in that breed.

VM Diesel

"THE DIESEL WITH A DIFFERENCE"

Cuts your power costs because it's way ahead of its time on all points.

AVCO-VM diesel engines are world-proven money-savers. They deliver maximum power efficiency immediately, under any sudden load or climate variation. Their higher power to weight ratios mean NO REDUCTION IN HORSEPOWER to qualify for pollution standards.

They're stingy on fuel, too. Many users report fuel consumption CUT IN HALF — and more — compared with gasoline engines. In some installations, our diesels are delivering more than TWICE the hours of operation per gallon of fuel.

Faultless performance is the norm, rather than the exception. A choice of 27 premium quality air-cooled Avco-VM's (5 to 670-hp) means there's one that's right for your application.

Modular, unitized construction means fewer specialized parts, lower weight per hp, lower maintenance costs, 70% parts interchangeability — and they'll fit the tightest space.

able to produce enough food to feed today's population.

With the Governor at the time of the signing were representatives from PennAg Industries Association. PennAg is a trade organization representing some 400 agribusiness firms in Pennsylvania. It is the oldest such organization in the country, and will be holding its 100th annual convention in Harrisburg, September 19-21.

The upcoming PennAg convention will feature numerous nationally and internationally known speakers, and informative, interesting and educational programs.

During the signing of the Agribusiness Day proclamation, Governor Shapp, who will participate in the PennAg Convention next week, noted that the PennAg Industries Association is the oldest state agribusiness association in the United States. When the Association kicks off its centennial meeting on Wednesday, Governor Shapp will deliver the welcoming address at 9 a.m. Activities such as registration and a display of products will actually have started the day before, prior to the organization's formal opening ceremonies.

Included in the PennAg Centennial convention will be a golf tournament n Sept. 19, at 11 a.m. at the West Shore Country Club, a fraktur demonstration by Julia Kohler at 2 p.m. and displays of products at 8 p.m.

The Wednesday program will feature Governor Shapp and several noted specialists who will look at the nation's economy, energy and environment.

Special activities on Wednesday morning include stone dressing, millwrighting, and quilting. At 2 p.m. there will be a tour to the William Penn Museum. The Buckwheat Institute of America meets at the same time.

Thursday morning, at 9 o'clock, will feature a panel of presidents who will give their own interpretations as to what agribusiness can expect in coming years. A special program on spinning and weaving will be given by Judith Eby of Dover. Stone dressing and millwrighting will be featured again.

Also included in the program on Thursday will be Pennsylvania Agriculture Secretary Kent Shelhamer, and Penn State University College of Agriculture Dean James Beattie. For more details, please refer to a separate article on page 124.

Agribusiness is a natural and necessary outgrowth of a food production system that has become increasingly specialized.

As agriculture grew, so did agribusiness. The evolution of one, in fact, would not have been possible without the other.

Agriculture's support industry in Pennsylvania is as impressive as agriculture itself. Grain and livestock marketers, according to the 1972 Census of Agriculture, accounted for $424.7 million in sales. Farm supply sales amounted to $463.1 million, farm and garden machinery and equipment accounted for $350.6 million and other agribusinesses sold $84.7 million worth of goods and services to the state's farmers.

The total agribusiness sales for 1972, the latest year for which these census figures are available, were $1.3 billion in Pennsylvania.

FFA hog show results posted at York Fair

YORK — York County's Future Farmers of America who take special interest in swine projects competed here this week in both market hog and breed shows. Champions in the breeding division were exhibited by Greg Innerst, Bryan Grove, Tom Innerst, Jeff Rexroth, all from the Red Lion FFA Chapter, and Tim Rehman from the Kennard-Dale Chapter.

Dan Boyl, Northern FFA, was the victor in the market swine contest, while David Leese of Southwestern took the reserve honor.

Following are more detailed results:

In Berkshire competition, Greg Innerst, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred O. Innerst, dominated the show with first-place entries for January, February, and March pigs. His senior sow pig was named grand champion. The February sow was reserve grand.

Innerst, a student at Red Lion High School, has been working with swine projects since 1976 and has won his Star Greenhand Award.

Tom Innerst, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Innerst, Red Lion, exhibited the champion and reserve champion Duroc sow. The champion was a February animal while the reserve entry was entered in the March class.

Tom Innerst, a student at Red Lion High School, had the Duroc champion among FFA competitors at the York Fair.

Larry Robinson of Kennard-Dale won the January sow contest and David Leese of Brodbecks R1 took the blue ribbon in the April class.

The champion Hampshire exhibitor was Jeff Waltemyer of Red Lion. He exhibited a junior yearling. A February sow exhibited by Clay Tyson, also of Red Lion, was awarded the reserve prize.

In Chester White competition, Bryan grove of Red Lion showed a January sow to the top spot. Blaine Grove, also of Red Lion, had the reserve champion, a February sow. David Leese showed the first-place animals in the March and April classes.

Tops among Spotted Swine was an entry by Jeff Rexroth, Red Lion, whose senior yearling edged a March sow exhibited by Larry Robinson. Robinson's entry was selected reserve champion. The young man

TO WATER SHALLOW-ROOTED PLANTS UNTIL IT FROSTS

Plants with shallow roots such as azaleas, rhododendrons, mountain laurel and flowering dogwood need frequent waterings. And it's a good idea to continue watering these plants on a regular basis until the ground freezes this fall.

A shallow-rooted plant has most of its root system in the upper three-to-five inches of soil. Since this is the first layer of soil to dry out, it's very important that these plants receive at least an inch of water each week throughout the season.

Also, the more water your plants can take up before the ground freezes, the better they will withstand the severe winter conditions. Keep in mind that once the ground does freeze, there will be no free water for the plants to take up. But even though the ground is frozen, the parts of the plant above the ground will continue to lose water.

South Branch Angus win at York

YORK — In a contest which featured several top contenders for top honors in the York Fair's Angus Breeding Show, South Branch Farm of York ended up with the junior, senior, and grand champion honors. Erdenheim Farm of Lafayette Hill placed second in each of those championship races. Following are the results by class:

Junior heifer calves - 1. Christine Shive, 2. Christine Shive. Late Summer yearling heifer - 1. William Wise. Early Summer yearling heifer - 1. David Wise (Summer Champ), 2. Erdenheim Farms (Reserve Summer Champ.)

April junior yearling heifer - Christine Shive, 2. Erdenheim Farm, 3. Chris Kinsley. March junior yearling heifer - South Branch Farm, 2. Ralph Dixon Jr., 3. Erdenheim Farm. Early junior yearling heifer - 1. Erdenheim Farm, 2. Tim Kinsley.

In bull calf classes, Erdenheim dominated the first four classes completely, relinquishing their stronghold only after the Summer yearlings entered the ring. Hidden Lane Farm swept the two yearling classes, as Erdenheim Farm went on to be named owner of both the grand and reserve grand champion bulls. Erdenheim then continued to win each of the group bull classes.

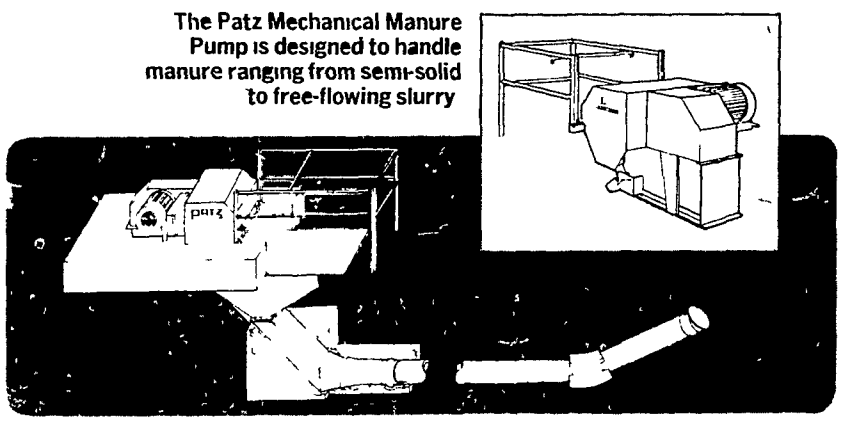
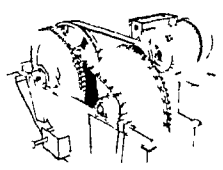
introducing the all new PATZ slurry manure pump

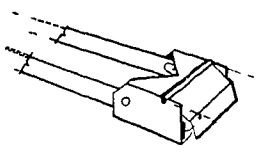
The Patz Mechanical Manure Pump is designed to handle manure ranging from semi-solid to free-flowing slurry



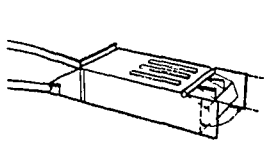
The Patz Slurry Manure Pump provides the ultimate solution to the moving of slurry liquid manure from dairy, beef, hogs or poultry installations to manure storage facilities
The new Patz Slurry Pump can move slurry and liquids up to 150 feet The manure is supplied to an underground hopper with a gutter cleaner or scraper and is forced into a 12 inch P V C pipe by means of an 8 inch by 15 inch plunger



A 10 h p electric motor running a roller chain reduction unit drives the plunger at a rate of 21 strokes per minute The Patz exclusive roller chain drive unit is the most efficient way to transmit a smooth flow of power (Shown with guard removed)



The 8 inch by 15 inch plunger has a one way valve in the sleeve which closes on the forward stroke forcing the manure into the storage facility and opens on the backward stroke for the next load



Plunger sleeve can be removed from sleeve chamber for servicing without breaking out concrete Valve in the sleeve and flapper valve at the end of the pipe prevent manure from returning

Southeast 4-H dairy show held

By LAUREL SCHAEFFER
Staff Correspondent

KUTZTOWN – Many 4-H'ers representing eight southeastern counties gathered recently at the Kutztown Fairgrounds, to compete in the 33rd annual Southeast 4-H Dairy Show. Youth exhibited cattle in six individual shows representing Holstein, Brown Swiss, Milking Shorthorn, Ayrshire, Jersey, and Guernsey breeds.

Judging the 231 cattle which were shown by the 175 4-H club members were Peter Blodgett of Carnation Genetics and Dr. Larry Muller of Penn State. Blodgett officiated the Holstein show which was the largest with 106 entries while Muller judged the colored breeds.

Taking top honors for the day was Steven Shaw, Oley R2, with his prized aged cow, Wa-Ka-Sta-T-Dule Leo Gigi, who was named Senior and Grand Champion of the Holstein show. Fifteen year old Steven, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Shaw had won other honors with this cow earlier in the season but did not walk away with the Grand Champion title until this show, held on September 1.

Following behind with the Reserve Champion was 18 year old Karen Sattazahn, daughter of Clarence Sattazahn, Womelsdorf R1. Karen won her place in the limelight with her two year old, Zahnheim Triune Spice, which she had bred herself. Other champions of the various shows were; 12 year old Elizabeth Jenkins of Toughkenamon for the Guernsey breed; 17 year old Cynthia Waltemyer of Collegeville for Jerseys; Nedra Yoder, Shoemakersville for Milking Shorthorn; 12 year old William Henley of Cochranville for Ayrshires; and Ronald Ray Daubert, 18 of Pine Grove for the Brown Swiss Show.

A complete listing of results follow.

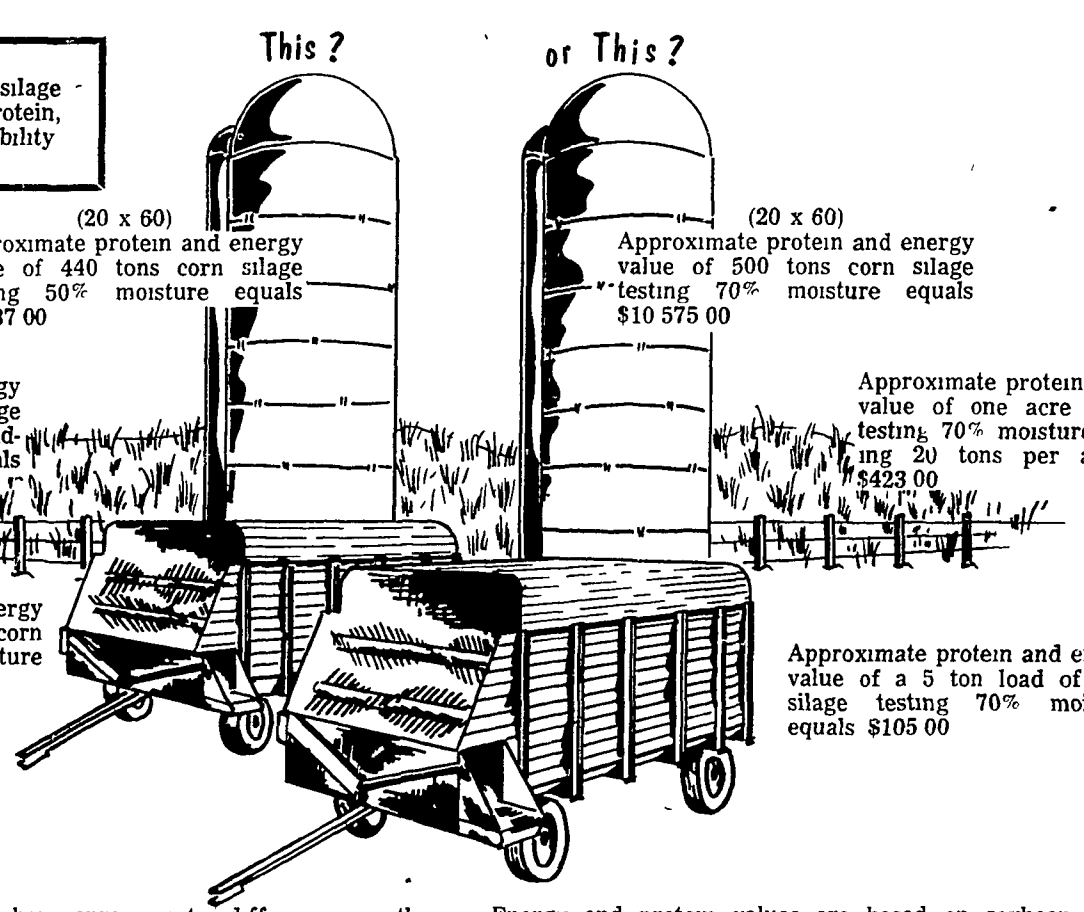
AGRI-KING
KEY TO PROFIT

IT'S TIME AGAIN TO START THINKING ABOUT GETTING THE MOST PROFIT FROM YOUR CORN SILAGE.

Don't let hot or sour corn silage rob you of digestible protein, energy vitamins and palatability



This ?
or This ?
(20 x 60)
Approximate protein and energy value of 440 tons corn silage testing 50% moisture equals $6 437 00
(20 x 60)
Approximate protein and energy value of 500 tons corn silage testing 70% moisture equals $10 575 00
Approximate protein and energy value of one acre corn silage testing 50% moisture and yielding 16 4 tons per acre equals $240 00
Approximate protein and energy value of one acre corn silage testing 70% moisture and yielding 20 tons per acre equals $423 00
Approximate protein and energy value of 4 1 ton load of corn silage testing 50% moisture equals $60 00
Approximate protein and energy value of a 5 ton load of corn silage testing 70% moisture equals $105 00

The above examples show approximate difference in the value of low moisture and high moisture corn silage

Values reflect difference in yield per acre, silo capacity, net energy, digestible protein and animal performance as reflected by university research

Energy and protein values are based on soybean meal at $200 00 per ton and corn at $1 50 per bushel

Grow the protein and energy you need, and save the energy and protein you grow!

Grange favors compromise gas bill

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The country's second largest and oldest farm organization, the National Grange, has announced support of the controversial Natural Gas Compromise Bill.

In letters to each Senator, John W. Scott, Master of the National Grange, asked them to consider this Bill as a compromise step toward a national energy policy. "We realize the Bill falls short of satisfying the extreme positions of both sides," said Scott, "but the country must take a positive step forward, no matter how small, toward the goal of a national energy policy."

He said his group feels the phased deregulation will provide increased incentives for additional exploration of new sources for natural gas and at the same time minimize the impact on consumers.

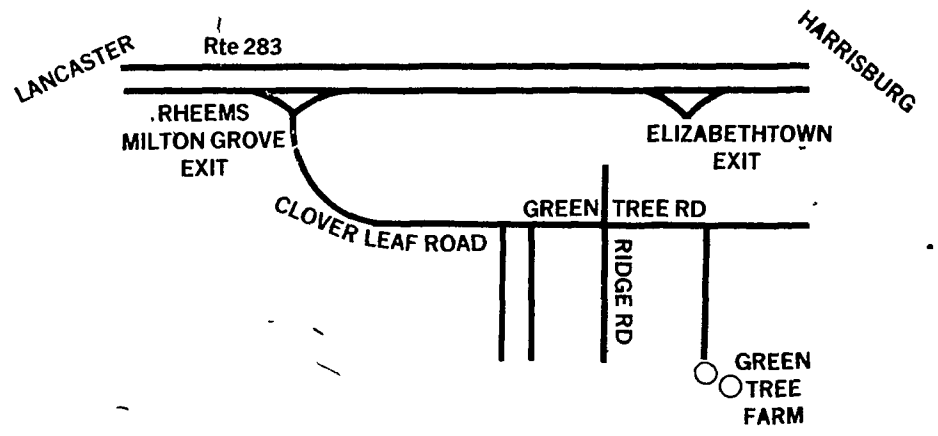
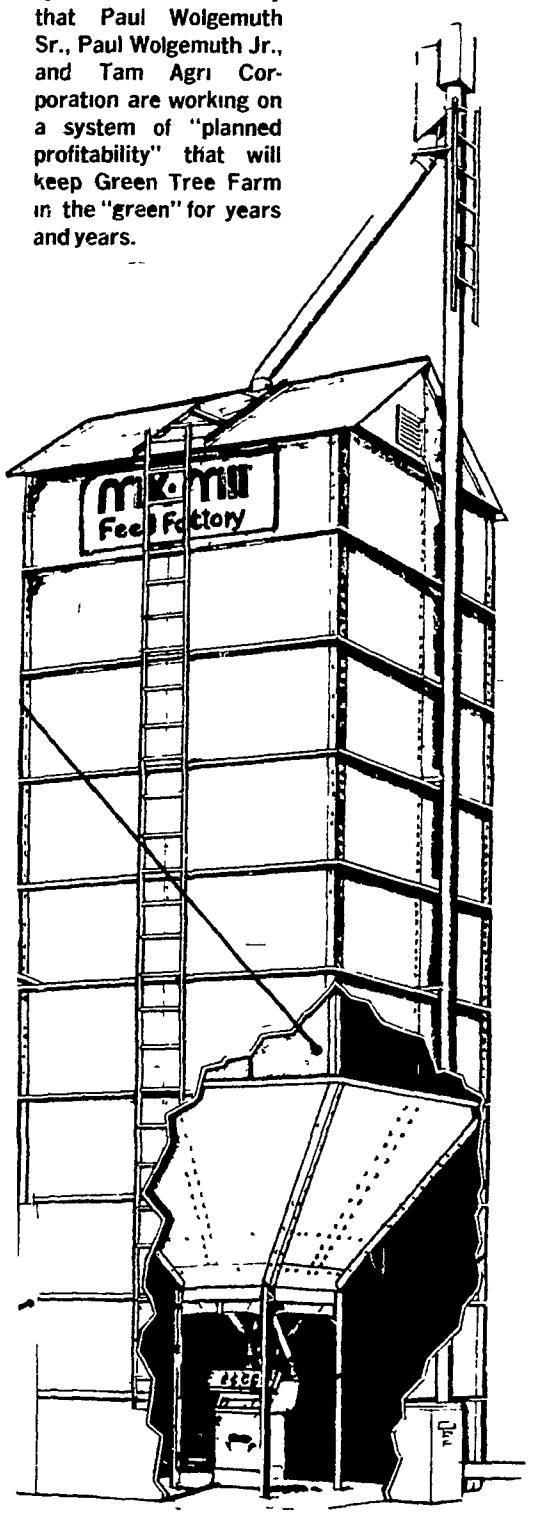
mix-mill™



To sum up the Green Tree Farm Mix Mill system, one could say that Paul Wolgemuth Sr., Paul Wolgemuth Jr., and Tam Agri Corporation are working on a system of "planned profitability" that will keep Green Tree Farm in the "green" for years and years.



Less than ½ of 1% of all the eggs produced at Green Tree Farm are sold there but with 60 000 birds consuming 2400 + tons of feed a year Paul Wolgemuth and his son were quick to decide that on-the-farm feed processing could be the answer to better feed control and more economic operation

At this point in 1977 a Tam Agri Corporation representative called on Wolgemuths and introduced them to the popular Mix Mill System of on-the-farm feed processing

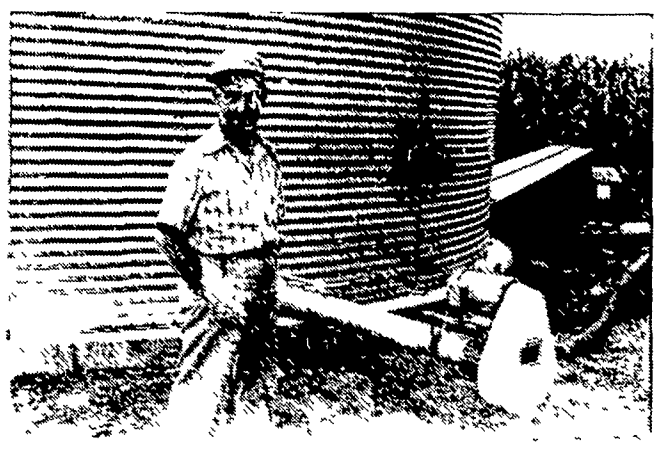
When interviewing the Wolgemuths we discovered that the senior Mr Woglemuth has been farming Green Tree Farm since 1936 and that Paul Jr (a Certified Public Accountant) has chosen the world of agri business over his profession

A seasoned farmer like Paul Sr and a man with his eye on profitable operation like Paul Jr are perfect witnesses to the effectiveness of Mix Mill Shown below are both Pauls looking over a calibration sheet the method whereby an operation controls production of consistent quality feed

Mix Mill systems produce feed by volume not weight ' says Paul Jr Of this I must admit I was skeptical and to be sure I keep a constant check on weight because the proper amount of feed is of prime importance in egg production

To date I have found the system delivering the volume of feed in accordance to weight and am pleased We are saving substantially on the feed we are processing

Future expansion will include an elevator leg and a grain drying facility to increase corn storage Paul Sr is shown at right beside a new grain bin which will be converted to a Shivvers drying bin in the next phase of expansion



This system was designed, supplied and constructed by:

SILAGE CONDITIONER
AND

100
SILAGE FORTIFIER

A revolutionary new concept in improving silages. MOPRO Liquid Silage Fortifier is formulated to balance the major mineral and protein deficiencies of silages. MOPRO is added at the time of ensiling and is applied by metering equipment with very little handling cost. MOPRO will not corrode mild steel tanks or brass fittings and has no free ammonia odor to irritate the eyes or skin. MOPRO is a homogeneous solution of ammonia salts, urea, cane molasses, and minerals (except salt and calcium) in an efficient liquid carrier. It provides nitrogen for improved fermentation in the rumen and contains a mineral balance of phospherous, magnesium, and trace elements. MOPRO 100 gives a resulting silage of approximately 14.3% protein.

learn exactly what needed to be done.

The only time the C.P.A. sees the books now is at the end of the year for tax preparation, profit and loss statements and depreciation schedules.

Interested and involved in farming, gardening and homemaking, Mrs. Ohlinger is genuinely committed to the well-being of her family and community. Like her husband, she is an active member of the Grange and numerous other organizations. One of her annual public relations projects involves hosting Kindergarten classes at the farm. In addition, Reu-Hel Farms has been the location for a variety of business and social events such as field days.

The Ohlingers' daughters, Cathleen and Constance, are both active members in the Northern Berks 4-H Dairy Club, and have shown many blue-ribbon Holsteins. Like their parents, they are members of the Grange, and local, state and national Holstein organizations.

As recipients of the Outstanding Farm Family Award for 1978, the Ohlingers are the first second generation to win the honor. The contest has been sponsored for 22 of the past 23 years by the Reading Fair. Last year the Kutztown Fair sponsored.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Ohlinger and daughters Cathleen, left, and Constance are Berks County's Outstanding Farm Family for 1978. They own and operate Reu-Hel Farms, Inc., which has 245 registered Holsteins.

mined by production and analysis of feedstuffs. Included in the Ohlingers' cropping program are 255 acres of corn, 110 acres of alfalfa, 30 acres of wheat, 24 acres of oats, and five acres of rye. In addition, they have 30 acres of pasture.

Although Ohlinger prefers corn silage in the ration, he also makes use of plenty of hay, haylage, and high-moisture corn. As is true on most farms these days, mechanization and automation are strongly evident at Reu-Hel Farms.

The accomplished and award winning farmer has also been making use of up-to-date technology, as well as management methods which have been around for generations. Some hay, for example, is still dried in the barn on the dryer. At other times, a hay preservative is used. A helicopte is called in from time to time to spray vast alfalfa fields and thereby keep pests under control.

While the management of 454 acres of land and 245 head of dairy cattle represents plenty of physical labor, there is also considerable desk and paper work involved. The person in charge of this department is Mrs. Ohlinger, a graduate of the McCann Business School. Initially, she had a certified public accountant take care of the books, to

In trials... Seven veal feeding programs were compared... and you've got the winner!

In total gains, rate of gain and conversion rate, one program stood out above all others. That's the one on which Agway Veal Pre-Starter, Starter and Finisher are based.

The group on the winning program started at an initial average weight of 111.1 lbs. And finished at 349.00 lbs. An average gain of 237.9 lbs. With a feed conversion rate of 1.66 pounds of feed per pound of gain.

Agway Veal Pre-Starter, Starter and Finisher are made from top quality products. From top quality protein, 100% derived from milk products. From 100% animal fat. Because Agway knows that protein quality and fat source are where performance is. As the trials showed... quality pays off.

Every veal grower knows that prime veal depends on the quality and vigor of the calves, on proper housing, feeding management and sanitation. Do all of them right, and the line-up of Agway Veal Feeds can do a superior job for you.

There was fun for both the audience and exhibitors in Sheep Decorator Classes at the York Fair.

Dressed sheep got laughs

YORK – The trick-or-treat part was missing, but the costumes were reminiscent of a Halloween party when 4-H sheep exhibitors took part in the York Fair's annual decorator contest.

Winners in the funniest category were: Kelly Miller, first; Shane Seidenstrickler, second; Donna Wilson, third; Linda Waltersdorff, fourth; Wendy Tracey, fifth; and Jessica Morton, sixth.

In the most attractive division, 4-H'ers finished with Susan Janney in the first place, Tracy Jo Tracey, second; Beth Myers, third; and Susan Eisenhart, fourth.

Pam Jefferies devised the most unusual get-up and James Caudill was second. Third was Duane Gracey and Kelly Myers was fourth.

Reading Fair honors

farming enterprise, the Ohlingers are active in various business and community affairs, including the Young Farmers program, the Berks County Holstein Club, 4-H activities, the Parent Teacher Organization, the Bern Evangelical Lutheran Church, the local, county, state and national Grange, the Pennsylvania Farmers Association, and the Clover Farms Dairy Farmers' Committee, to name a few. The list could go on and for each of the Ohlingers - Elwood, 39; his wife, Ruth, 35; and daughters Constance, 13; and Cathleen, 11.

Being showered with recognition is nothing new for the Ohlingers, who specialize in dairy farming and own 245 head of registered Holsteins.

In 1976 Ohlinger was recognized as the Outstanding Young Farmer by the Pennsylvania Young Farmers Association. In February of this year, he was chosen as the outstanding Young Farmer president in Pennsylvania. He presides at the Kutztown Chapter. What's more, in 1963 Mrs. Ohlinger's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Field, were chosen as the Outstanding Berks County Farm Family.

A strong sense of togetherness appears to be one of the keys to the Ohlingers' success, according to statements made by Mrs. Ohlinger. She noted that the entire family enjoys taking part in church and Grange functions, school activities, 4-H projects, sports and leisure activities, and going to fairs. "And last but not least, we enjoy working together," she concluded.

Selected as the Outstanding Farm Family by the Berks County Pomona Grange, the recognition carried a $600 prize which is given by the Reading Fair. Among the criteria for the contest are family interests and activities, farm size and production, crop and livestock management programs, conservation practices, and community involvement.

All four of the Ohlingers scored impressively with their activities and involvement.

With 121 Holsteins in the milking string, the 1978 Outstanding Berks County Farm Family has averaged just under 17,000 pounds of milk and 600 pounds of butterfat per cow per year for the past three years. In 1977 Ohlinger's cows produced 1.88 million pounds of milk. The herd includes five cows which classified Excellent and 32 Very Goods, for a B.A.A. of 103.3. All but five of the total 245 head on the farm were bred by Ohlinger. Several of his Holsteins have been exported overseas and seven of his bulls are in American studs. One has earned the Gold Medal distinction. Currently, eight bulls are included in the Ohlinger herd.

The feeding program at the Ohlingers' Reu-Hel Farms, Inc., which they have owned solely since 1975, is geared primarily to home-raised crops. Only protein supplements are purchased. It is fed to the cattle according to need, as deter-

Colored breeds show held at Solanco Fair

QUARRYVILLE -- Solanco Fair, Quarryville, opened with the Colored Breeds Dairy Show on Wednesday of this week.

Bob and Joyce Wagner, Quarryville, had the grand champion Guernsey, with their Penn Del Prince Ruby, a two year old cow bought in January and shown for the first time by the Wagner's. Reserve champion Guernsey was a three year old animal owned by Scott and Elsie Wolff, Quarryville.

Arrowsmith's two year old Garnet took the reserve champion honors in that breed's classes.

Karen Schmuck, 15, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Larry Schmuck, showed both the champion Brown Swiss and Ayrshire cow at the show. Her brother Warren Schmuck, had the reserve champion Ayrshire, while Cindy Trimble, Peach Bottom, had the reserve champion Brown Swiss animal.

York Fairs top Hereford titles go to Spring Bottom Farm, JDH

Hausner exhibited the Summer champion female and male entries and the reserve champion bull calf.

Twinn Valley Farm left no room at the top of the first three classes for any but their own entries, thus coming up with the champion heifer calf. The top senior yearling was shown by Christine Klinedinst. Spurgeon Kimmel had the second-place entry.

JDH returned to the spotlight in the Summer yearling heifer class, winning a first place in the contest. An entry by Christine Klinedinst stood second to JDH's Summer champion.

In the April junior yearling heifer class, Spring Bottom's entry stood first, followed by an animal owned by Tammy Miller. That same entry was later chosen as reserve junior champion. Twinn Valley Farm placed first in the March junior yearling class, followed by Mike Myers.

Competition continued in the bull classes with Tim Livingston placing first in the junior calf class. A JDH entry stood second. Twinn Valley won the next round with their late Summer bull calf. Livingston wound up with the bull calf champion. JDH had the runner-up. JDH was on top again in late Summer yearling bulls while Spurgeon Kimmel captured the early Summer yearling bull class. Their respective animals were later picked as the Summer champion and reserve Summer champion.

Spring Bottom Farm had the junior champion bull as well as the first place early junior yearling bull.

Bowed leg turkeys traced to mutant gene

UNIVERSITY PARK – The problem of bowed legs in turkeys, serious in the poultry industry, is caused by a mutation or alteration in the genes, a scientist from Penn State declared recently. Dr. Edward G. Buss, poultry geneticist at Penn State, was addressing the 67th annual meeting of the Poultry Science Association at Clemson University, Clemson, S.C.

Dr. Buss said the mutation creating bowlegs in turkeys is a single gene trait. He has observed and studied the problem for 29 years. His findings apply to male and female turkeys alive at 24 weeks of age.

He claimed this hereditary condition, termed bowed hock of turkeys, can be reduced by applying traditional genetic breeding tests used by geneticists working for commercial turkey-producing firms.

"There may be other factors leading to lameness of legs in turkeys, but genes are a major factor for this bowed-hock situation," Dr. Buss affirmed.

The genetic factor even produced the bowed-hock condition among turkeys of the smaller varieties, he pointed out. This is significant, he added, since bowed-hocks have been commonly associated with excessive weights in today's larger breeds of turkeys.

Although mostly a problem with male turkeys, bowed-hocks appear occasionally in females. Dr. Buss claimed the tendon is abnormal rather than the hock joint. And he indicated that tendons of bowed-hock turkeys have a rough surface compared to tendons of normal turkeys.

Dr. Buss and associates at Penn State are now making chemical assays of turkey tendons to find chemical differences, if any, between bowed-hock turkey tendons and those of normal turkeys.

The first clock made entirely in America was constructed by a man who had never seen a clock before. It continued to run accurately, striking all hours regularly from 1754 when it was built to 1774.

Frey wins Solanco Fair Holstein show

QUARRYVILLE — Norman Craig, showing a last minute entry by J. Mowery Frey, Jr. Willow Street, showed the grand champion Holstein at the Solanco Fair on Thursday.

The cow, Logwood Faith Doreen, also won best udder award at the show. She is expected to milk 22,000 pounds this year.

This was the nine year old animal's first trip to the Solanco Fair although she had been named champion at the Lampeter Fair last year, and has been shown at other shows thorughout the county.

Reserve champion at the fair was a three year old animal owned and shown by Ken Rutts, Quarryville R2. The cow is homebred and sired by a homebred bull at the Edgefield Farms.

Rutts told that the cow milked 20,000 pounds last year and is expected to give 24,000 pounds this year.

Junior champion was the 16 month old Todd Acres Charmcross Botts, which was shown by Doug Hershberger, Quarryville R2. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hershberger, he bought the cow in March at the Eastern Shore State Calf sale in Maryland. She placed first in her class at the 4-H dairy roundup in July.

He is a member of the Lancaster County Holstein Dairy Club.

Community Affairs Secretary Hydeman.

According to the PFA reports, as well as numerous newspaper articles in the Scranton-Wilkes-Barre area, several disputes have arisen between Lackawanna Countian Keith Eckel and representatives of Susquehanna Human Services, an arm of the Pennsylvania Council of Churches. SHS is allegedly disrupting work schedules at the Eckel farm in order to make contact with migrant workers. According to Eckel, PFA, and newspaper pictures and articles, the migrant workers don't want the services offered by SHS and have even gone so far as to chase them off the Eckel farm.

Staff representative of Susquehanna Human Services, Joe Boyle, claims, however, that the crux of the problem is that Eckel hasn't allowed him and his associates to reach the farm workers. Later in the telephone interview, he admitted, however, that he has talked to some of the workers. "A number of workers have requested help," he pointed out. He bases his sustained efforts for contact with the workers on those grounds. Susquehanna Human Services provides emergency and supportive services to migrant workers and others in rural areas who need assistance, Boyle explained. Examples of help include the securing of jobs, social security cards, birth certificates, food stamps, education, transportation, and medicine, the SHS representative said.

Eckel and PFA told the press on Monday that they are not opposed to migrants and others receiving assistance. Rather, their quarrel is that the SHS organization is duplicating services which are already being provided by other organizations. Eckel and PFA are also highly disappointed and upset about the conduct of SHS representatrives.

PFA's concerns center around the following:

The waste of tax monies through the duplication of services offered by the Farmworkers Corporation; the dignity and right to pricacy of the farm workers; the loss of farm workers due to harrassment by federally funded Farmworkers Corporation; the interruption of harvest by a federally funded agency such as the Farmworkers Corporation; the loss of income to the farmer who cannot harvest and transport his crops to market; and the overt harrassment program being conducted by the Farmworkers Corporation against farmers in Pennsylvania.

Although the Eckel situation is currently in the forefront, other incidents of harrassment have occurred and continue to occur. Several incidents have been reported at Chester County mushroom farms, alone. Farmworkers Corporation, which is headquartered in New Jersey and federally funded through the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA), has five regional offices in Pennsylvania and several subcontractors.

Susquehanna Human Services is one of the subcontractors. It administers Farmworkers Corporation programs in Pennsylvania, but does not use church funds for doing so, according to a spokesman at the Pennsylvania Council of Churches. The Rev. Albert Myers of the Pennsylvania Council of Churches, defends the CETA funded program as "the only consistant assistance program to migrants." The Pennsylvania Council of Churches acts as "a conduit" for the federal funds, he explained.

The outcome of the controversy between Eckel and Suquehanna Human Services isn't certain. More on the story will appear in Lancaster Farming next week.

August milk price: $11.00

ALEXANDRIA, Va. -- Market Administrator Joseph D. Shine Tuesday announced an August 1978 base milk price of $11.00 per hundredweight for the Middle Atlantic Marketing Order and an excess milk price of $9.73. The weighted average August price is $10.91 and the butterfat differential for the month is 13.4 cents. The August base milk price is up 25 cents from July and is 70 cents above the August 1977 base price. The gross value of all producer milk was $48.7 million. Deductions for the Advertising and Promotion Fund totaled $311.3 thousand in August. Order No. 4 prices are announced for 3.5 per cent milk f.o.b. plant location within 55 miles of Philadelphia, PA and also within 75 miles from the nearer of Washington, DC or Baltimore, MD. There is a 6-cent direct-delivery differential applicable to producer milk received at plants located within 55 miles of Philadelphia.

Mr. Shine reported that August producer milk receipts totaled 444.8 million pounds, an increase of 0.8 per cent over the previous month. The total number of producers reported was 7,319, a decrease of 11 from July. The average daily delivery per producer was 1,960 pounds compared to 1,941 in July and 1,959 a year ago. Class I producer milk accounted for 51.37 per cent of total August producer deliveries compared to 49.16 per cent in July and 54.12 per cent last August. Base milk represented 93.1 per cent of total August production compared to 92.8 per cent the previous month and 89.9 per cent a year earlier.

Middle Atlantic Order pool handlers reported Class I in-area milk disposition of 6.3 million pounds per day during August, an increase of 1.5 per cent from July, after adjustment for variation in calendar composition.

Stilesrite Jerseys sweep York Fair Jersey show

YORK — Stilesrite Jersey Farms of Littlestown, owned by J. Howard Stiles and family, entered the York Fair Jersey Show for the first time this year and came away with first-place honors in every class. The family, which operates a 147 acre dairy farm on the Maryland line, dominated the show completely. Their closest contenders to the top honors were Mike and Joey Welsh of East Berlin and Suzy Queitsch of New Freedom.

The Stiles own 65 milking Jersey cows and have been exhibiting their cattle each week since early August. They do most of their exhibiting in Maryland, where the Stiles children are 4-H Club members. A year ago they had the supreme champion cow (champion over all breeds) at the Maryland State Fair in Timonium. In addition, the family has shown at the All-American in Harrisburg.

Although the J. Howard Stiles family wasn't participating in the York Fair in 1977, the elder Stiles' brother, Clifford, was, and he won all the honors.

The Stiles' grand champion here is the first they have had in 1978, said John Stiles, who was taking care of the grand champion owned by his sister, Becky.

Suzy Queitsch, one of just three exhibitors to crack the stronghold held by the Stiles, exhibited two third-place animals. They were a senior calf and a junior yearling. Mike Welsh had a second and third place 2-year old as well as a third place Best Udder entry. His brother, Joey, captured a fourth place in the 4-year old class.

Easy Dessert

For an easy dessert, combine orange half-cartwheels with sliced bananas. Use the extra juice to keep the bananas bright.

E-town Fair book incomplete

ELIZABETHTOWN — Catalogues for the Elizabethtown Community Fair, which opens with a parade Monday, were printed with omissions, said Helen Mumma, a fair secretary.

Mrs. Mumma said the printer left out the number of specimens required for floral, garden and fruits and nuts exhibits. She said entrants should bring five specimens for each category.

Kerr and Staugh win beef contests

YORK — Jeff Kerr, Charolais breeder, exhibited the champion animals of his breed at the recent York Fair show for beef breeding cattle.

Wayne Stough won the Simmental breed classes.

Foal training tips offered

NEWARK, Del. -- Educating a foal takes patience, gentleness, and firmness, says Delaware Extension equine specialist Dr. C. Melvin Reitnour. Start by placing a well-fitted halter on the youngster very soon after it's born.

After the foal has become accustomed to the halter for several days, it's time to go on to the next step in its educational development. For the next few days, tie the foal securely in the stall alongside the mare for 30 minutes to an hour each day. Take care the animal doesn't become tangled in the rope or harmed in any way. Carefully groom and handle the animal while it's tied in this position.

After each leg is rubbed, the foot should be handled frequently so there will be no struggling or fright as the feet are picked up. Following this procedure the foal should be led, first in company with the mare, and after a few days at a distance from its dam.

When asked to stop, the foal should stand squarely, balanced on all four legs. The head should be in a balanced position. While the educational program is proceeding, the usual commands for stopping and starting should be given and promptly executed.

Finally, Reitnour notes, training the foal is no time to exhibit an ill temper. Your calm temperament is a crucial factor in the educational process.

Solanco Fair just wouldn't be the same without her

By SUSAN KAUFFMAN
Staff Writer

Fair season is here. Taking its place in the calendar of such festivities this week was the Solanco Fair held at Quarryville, Lancaster County. Like all the other fairs, it required many hours of personal commitment from exhibitors and working committees. Although much of the work and man-power must be expended immediately before, during, and immediately after the fair week, it takes a lot of effort throughout the year to plan, coordinate, and finally set into motion all the activities involved.

One reliable source for information concerning the year-round business of putting on a fair is Helen Snyder who has been personally involved in the Solanco Fair board for many years. For 16 years, she has answered to the president's request, "Could we have the secretary's report at this time?" In 1962, Helen was elected to the office of recording secretary of the Solanco Fair board of directors. Every year since that election she has been re-elected.

"I am not especially talented or trained for this position," she noted. "But people have said I am reliable. They have said, 'If Helen says she will do something, she will do it,'" Miss Snyder explained. Not characteristically one to easily accept praise or recognition, this friendly, soft spoken community servant reluctantly granted Lancaster Farming an interview.

"I would prefer to talk about the fair and the changes that have occurred over the years than about myself," she began.

For these last 16 years she has served as the recording secretary at the nine or ten meetings of the board of directors for the Solanco Fair Association held each year. In addition to keeping the minutes of all the board's business meetings, she helps with the corresponding secretarial work which inadvertently gets mailed to her from time to time. In this capacity she is very knowledgeable of the funding, restrictions, and eligibilities as they are prescribed by the state of Pennsylvania.

Preferring to be accurate, Helen remarked from time to time that when a particular item appeared in the conversation, "I will have to look that up in the minutes to see just when that happened," Sixteen years' experience as recording secretary has left its mark on her.

In addition to the keeping of the minutes during the year, Helen also helps out during fair week with registering exhibitors, recording premium winnings, and writing out the premium checks which are handed out the last evening of the fair.

"If you have never helped with the premium recording, you have no idea what all is involved in it," she explained. Each exhibitor is assigned an identification number before entering his exhibits in the various categories and classes. As each category completes judging and scoring, the department chairpersons record the winners and amounts for the placings on a standard reporting sheet. This sheet is then turned over to the recorders who listen as the sheet is read aloud, item by item. When a number is called out which appears within the numbers assigned to a paticular recorder, she lists the placing, category and winning on that exhibitor's card.

"We try very hard to make no mistakes. But no matter how hard we try, there are always some errors by Friday night," she added.

The first sheets to come in are the milk results, she noted, while the handiwork, sewing, flowers and arts and crafts come during the first night of the fair and require a lot of time to record because there are so many classes.

"We have to record through the day, every day. It is much harder to record the winnings during the night, but it has to be done and the checks written out by Friday night. It is a lot of work!" she concluded.

The premium sheets are kept for three years as required by law according to Helen. "If the state wants to check on our funding we must have the records on hand."Fifty per cent of the premium money paid out each year comes from state funds. This applies only to state prescribed eligibility items, Helen explained. The state sets up the classes and premium amounts which may be matched with local funds.

If a fair wishes to hold a class or category which is not on the state approved list, that fair must request and obtain permission to establish that class even though the state will not share premium payments. Vests and ponchos, for instance, may not be on the needlework approved list, but permission has been granted to hold that category for competition. The local fair has to put up the total premium winnings for those categories.

This week was the 29th year for the Solanco Fair Although Helen has been serving in an official capacity as board recording secretary for well over half of the fair's existence, she has been involved since the fair's beginning.

Helen is a farmer's daughter who moved to 221 West State Street, Quarryville, in 1920. When the first fair was held, Helen recalls, she worked in the needlework department entering exhibits, displaying them, helping with the judging by checking categories and watching over the displays during the first fair week.

In 29 years of the community fair has changed locations from firehouse, furniture store, American legion building, tents, and private business grounds. Presently the fair is held on the association owned site which contains several pole barns and the Hoffman community building. In addition to the association's ground, the fair also uses borough ground for much of the commerical exhibits.

The fair has grown in location size and number of exhibits, Helen said, since its first days. The Farm Women once served big meals from the firehall, or tents, in later years. Now the association serves meals prepared in the Hoffman buiding kitchen. The community people continue to be drawn in large numbers to eat, work, visit and exhibit at the event, Helen added.

Helen says she has enjoyed the opportunity to work on the fair board because she gets to meet community people she would otherwise have no contact with.

"By working on the board I get to know farmers and their wives I would not get to know. You have your town and your church. But there are many other community people you would not meet if you were not involved with the fair," she explained.

Helen says she has never exhibited at the fair but she does enjoy crocheting. She adds that she has not done much of that recently because she promised herself she would not do any unless she really had a use for it.

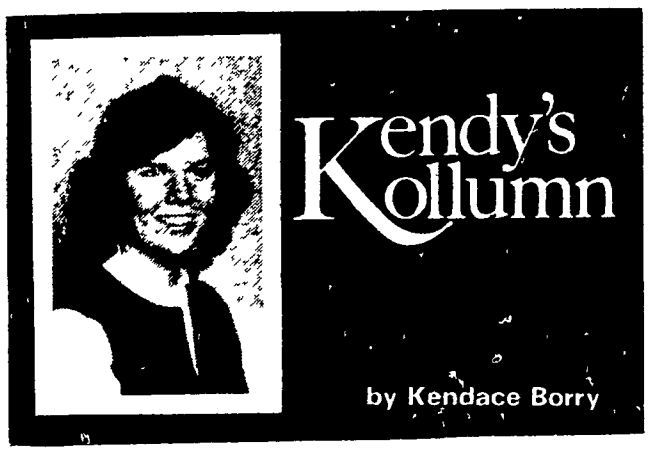
For many years Helen has been actively involved in the Quarryville Methodist Church programs. She has played the piano and organ there. The organ was installed in 1946 and she played the piano for services prior to that Presently she plays the organ two Sundays a month.

In addition to her musical contributions to her church, she has volunteered many hours as a kitchen helper, in Sunday School work and on various committees.

Whether she is helping in her town, her church, or at the fair, Helen Snyder has plenty of things to be done. She, like many others, has more than enough to do during fair week.

HOMESTEAD NOTES

Miss Helen Snyder, Quarryville, has followed the Solanco Fair for 29 years, since it first started. For sixteen years she has been secretary of the fair, one of her duties being to write the minutes in her secretary's book.



"I still want to be a farmer," he declared as he picked himself up off the stable floor for the fourth time

I didn't say a word as I looked at him. The sweat was running down my face, and my hair kept falling into my eyes, making seeing where I was going a trifle difficult. I stank, I was covered with mud, and I was dreadfully tired And I was in better shape than he was

We were worming the sheep, and it was hot and muggy The sheep were definitely not cooperating and the whole operation was quickly becoming a drawn-out ordeal. We had to take it easy so as not to excite the gentle woolies, but unfortunately, they weren't using the same game plan In their book, everything was legal and they were trying every trick possible to get out of taking that dreaded medicine

Because of recent rains, the "mud" in the barnyard was extra deep and adding to the problems The whole scene was beginning to look like a three-ring circus with sheep and their would-be shepherds slipping and sliding in all directions

Once an animal was cornered and caught, we humans converged to give the balky beast its dose Occasionally the drama would get a little tense as humans and animal would hop from spot to spot in the battle to see if the 'pill' would go down that cranky sheep's throat or not

We have big sheep, and they're a handfull to handle Thus, the sheep would score occasional points when they managed to lunge by a human and escape capture

But as for my buddy in the dirt, he just didn't know when to give up Every time a sheep outsmarted him and ducked by, he took it personal and dove right back into the melee

Then it came time to do the ram, who is a beast of another color Weighing well over 200 pounds, one doesn't tackle him, one asks permission to touch his body, and move him in a general direction, if it suits him, please

I started to tell my muddy friend this, but he had already taken matters into his own hands, and decided that his old football tackle was the best method of approach With an open mouth, I watched him lunge against the ram, using his best college form Only problem was the that the ram didn't know how to play football

Old Ramset just took off, wiping that human along the wall until he no longer could hang on And while my buddy lay bruised and battered in the dirt, Ramset just kept right on moving, never even admitting he had been near a human

I ran over to assess the damage of my companion laying half in the mud

As I turned him face up, I heard him muttering to himself, "I still want to be a farmer "

Hmmmm I do believe he's crazier than I thought

Fashion revue winner named

COLLEGE PARK, Md. – Cheryl Belsley, 16, of Fairland and Wanda Almony, 17, of Parkton were named winner and runner-up, respectively, in the 4-H Fashion Revue, held September 1 at the Maryland State Fair in Timonium.

Both had also been selected as champions earlier that week in the state fair 4-H home economics division. Miss Almony won senior and grand championship honors in the home furnishings section for the second consecutive year with a crocheted afghan, and Miss Belsley won similar honors in the clothing section with a mint green, three-piece tailored suit.

Cheryl then modeled her prize-winning outfit to a first-place finish in the statewide 4-H Fashion Revue. This makes her eligible for an all-expense-paid trip to compete for U.S. honors and a college scholarship during the National 4-H Congress set for Nov. 26 to 30 at Chicago, Ill.

Her accomplishment marks the second consecutive victory in the statewide 4-H Fashion Revue by a Montgomery county resident. She is a junior at Paint Branch high school.

Cheryl's winning outfit included a skirt and jacket made from a polyester-cotton poplin fabric. The accompanying sheer blouse was fashioned from a nylon-triacetate blend.

Top-stitching accented both the jacket and skirt. The jacket was semi-fitted and lined. It had shoulder pads, a notched collar, three button-hole pockets, side panels and full-length, two-piece sleeves.

The loose-fitting blouse had a round neckline with pointed collar, front-button closing and full sleeves with narrow, buttoned cuffs.

Cheryl accessorized her prize-winning outfit with a knotted scarf and handkerchief to match the blouse.

Wanda Almony's runner-up costume in the statewide 4-H Fashion Revue was a classic evening gown. The high-waisted dress was evening length, with fitted pin-tucked bodice and high neckline. The fabric was a single-knit polyester. Tricot was used for lining.

Other top placings were as follows: 3. Margie Jewell, 17, of Elkton; 4. Cathy Long, 16, of Hughesville; 5. Emily A. Miller, 14, of Centreville.

On being a farm wife

—And other hazards

By JOYCE BUPP

The sun shone golden and the sky was a deep glaze of delft blue that afternoon. My farm wife friend, J., walked to the sweet corn patch to gather fresh corn-on-the-cob for the evening's supper.

After twisting a long solid ear from the tall green stalk, J. carefully pulled the husk and silk from the vegetable, exposing fat juicy kernels inside.

"What are you doing to my house?" snarled a tiny voice.

Astonished, J. dropped the ear to the ground.

"Ouch! Stop that!" demanded the voice, somewhat louder this time.

J.'s curiosity overcame her surprise. She picked the ear of corn off the ground and carefully turned it over. Glowering at her from a large hole in the center of the cob was a gray worm with black speckles down his back. At two inches long by a quarter-inch thick, it was the biggest corn worm she had ever seen.

"Ugh! I hate worms in sweet corn," she grimaced, eyeing the ugly pest. "Who'd want to eat that after you've been in there stomping around?"

"Well, you'd better get used to us," grinned the nasty intruder. "My entire family and all our friends and relatives, all three billion of us, are lobbying with the state and federal regulatory agencies to do away with all insect sprays.

The worm's ugly face lit up at the thought of anti-pesticide legislation. He closed his eyes and a dreamy look spread over his countenance.

"Then my cousins could really move into the orchards and settle down, living peacefully amidst the peaches, the apples, the pears, the plums," he mused. "All our little wiggly children could play unharmed and grow to be big and strong in the fields of corn, of soybeans, of alfalfa. Vegetable fields would provide us with a variety and selection we've been denied up to this time. Ah, 'twould truly be paradise."

"And just what do you suppose all those fresh produce lovers across the nation are going to say about eating wormy fruit and vegetables?" J. questioned the arrogant insect.

"Just tell them that if it's healthy enough for a worm, it'll be healthy for a person," called the worm, as he crawled back into his cozy home deep in the corn cob.

And as J. left the field, empty handed, I think I heard her say: "I wonder if worms are high in cholesterol?"

Liming tip

FLEMINGTON, N.J. — Should meadows or pastures be limed? Yes, if the pH is below 6.0, one or two tons per acre of lime should be applied to the surface. Liming will encourage some of the more desirable volunteer forage species, including clover, to return to a meadow, and will also aid plant growth, according to the New Jersey Extension Service.

How much to apply? That's easy. "Test... don't guess," they say. Samples can be taken easily this time of year. Use a good sampling device. A large auger or a spade will do.

The sample should be representative of the field or area being tested. So, take borings at eight or a dozen spots, randomly, over the area. Mix the soil well and take about a pint of this mixture for testing.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Somehow, I feel as though I've been struck a double blow and all within a week's time. Not only did our son leave for college as a freshman but our college graduate daughter has moved to an apartment in Hershey. She did not want to drive back and forth during the coming Winter months.

Her job as a food technologist in the research laboratories at Hershey Foods has been a challenging one and has given her an opportunity to travel some this Summer. Several days were spent in Canada and the company jet also flew a team of workers to Wisconsin for a week

Our other children, who have set up housekeeping, did not leave directly from home and so the move was not as heart-rending. One only realizes all that is needed to start a household when one actually participates in it - so many items both large and small are necessary.

Her brother was a big help as he loaned her quite a bit of furniture which he had stored in different places. We discovered that a granary in an old barn is a fine place to store wooden things but a basement of a damp house is not. I'd given him a bed, when he needed one several years ago, which was the first purchase that I'd made with my first paychecks almost forty years ago. Can it be that long? Anyway, the veneer had completely peeled off of the headboard and the footboard and it was a sorry sight. So a mattress on the floor will have to suffice for the present.

Oh, I'm glad she isn't moving to the West Coast like our older daughter but even so it is a jolt to sit down to a meal and only have three places set instead of the eight places we had just a few years ago. We will just have to adjust to smaller meals and a lot less activity in our home.

ABOUT OLD FASHIONED GOODNESS

For the busy homemaker, having soup for a meal usually means opening a can. Condensed soups offer speed and convenience, but homemade soups can be just as convenient with a lot more to offer. When time permits, most cooks prefer a soup that starts with fresh ingredients that cook slowly, filling the kitchen with delectable aromas.

For all their goodness, homemade soups are a bargain, since they can be made from leftovers, with the cost per serving approximately half that of condensed soups. And, the variety is endless. Besides being economical, soup as a main dish is nutritious.

By preparing several batches at one time, the convenience of homemade soups is greatly enhanced. Save some for the following day, and freeze the rest. Then, soups can go from freezer to range to table with a minimum of preparation and cleanup.

Homemade goodness is really at its best when the foundation of soups is beef stock or broth. For those of you who like to experiment in the kitchen, a pinch of this and a dab of that can lead to a perfect combination for creating unique soups. The secret is to add just enough of any one seasoning when using several. The mingling of lots of flavors, when done on a small scale, will produce the full-bodied flavor that makes homemade soups so special.

One way to make a good hearty main dish soup is in your electric blender or food processor. Begin with cooked meats and leftover vegetables. If a creamy soup is desired, add a little cooked potato, rice, or macaroni as a thickener with no further cooking required. Simply blend, heat, and serve.

Remember the importance of garnishes. That finishing touch should not be forgotten when serving soups. Try crumbled cheese, avocado slices, thin radish slices, thinly sliced celery rings, sauteed mushrooms, thinly sliced olive rings, crumbled hard-cooked egg, sour cream or grated cheese.

TIPS TO MAKE FALL HOUSECLEANING A BREEZE

Are you planning to turn your house inside out this Fall? Help speed up your cleaning by organizing Supplies and equipment - the key to faster completion of any job! Save steps by preparing a well-stocked carrying caddy of needed items for a given area. Use a basket or carton lined with soft towels to carry bric-a-brac to the sink for washing.

Have a double-sided pail or two separate pails, so both cleaning solution and rinse water are at the job site. An ample supply of sponges and cloths for washing, dusting, rinsing, and polishing is helpful. A sturdy stepstool or ladder is a must for reaching high places. Brooms, mops, scrub brushes, steel wool pads and pads for kneeling should be gathered together before beginning any cleanup project. Also include an old toothbrush, cotton swabs or pipe cleaners. They are invaluable aids in working lather into crevices and hard-to-reach areas.

Besides the necessary detergents, soaps, and cleansers, check your supply of polishes and waxes for floors, furniture, silver and other metals. Be sure to have on hand any special cleaners for tile, rug or toilet bowl. For safety's sake and best results, read labels on all cleaning products before using.

When your housecleaning is finished, store all supplies and equipment in a convenient place. There are numerous space savers available which can be attached to closet walls or doors to air storage of cleaning products and tools. Make a list of household cleaners which need to be replaced prior to future cleaning projects. Launder cloths and sponges. Wash, rinse and dry brooms, mops vacuums cleaner attachments, even the caddy, before storing.

Chickens under the American class: one of the recognized breeds is the Plymouth Rock, which has seven varieties: Barred, White, Buff, Silver-Penciled, Partridge, Columbian, and Blue. There are 12 other breeds in the American class, including the Delawares, established in 1952.

Pa. apple production down 13 per cent

HARRISBURG – Commercial apple production in Pennsylvania is forecast at 400 million pounds or 9,524,000 - 42 pound equivalents based on August 1 conditions, according to the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service.

This is 13 per cent below the 460 million pound production, 10,952,000 - 42 pound equivalents in 1977. July weather was favorable for apple development and a good quality crop is expected.

Based on the August 1 conditions, the state's leading variety, York Imperial, will decrease 19 per cent from 1977 production. Poor pollination was primarily responsible. Yorks are expected to account for 23 per cent of the 400 million pound total for all varieties.

Gold Delicious production is down 13 per cent from 1977, estimated at 79 million pounds, 20 per cent of the total crop. The Red Delicious crop was severely reduced by frost, and is expected to account for only 15 per cent of the total crop, followed by Rome Beauty, 14 per cent, and Stayman, 13 per cent. Other varieties account for five per cent; Jonathan, four per cent; McIntosh, four per cent; and Cortland, two per cent.

United States commercial apple production, based on August 1 conditions, is forecast at 7.36 billion pounds of 3.34 million metric tons. This is 11 per cent above the 1977 total and 14 per cent higher than the freeze-damaged 1976 crop. Significant gains are expected in all regions of the country. Based on the August 1 forecast, the eastern states will be up eight per cent, the central states will increase by 25 per cent, and the west output will be seven per cent higher than in 1977.

Red Delicious continues its long reign as the leading apple variety in the United States, accounting for 36 per cent of the total grop. Other leading varieties and their per cent of the 1978 expected total production are Golden Delicious, 16 per cent; McIntosh, 10 per cent, Rome Beauty, eight per cent; Jonathan, five per cent; and York Imperial, four per cent. Together, these six varieties will comprise 79 per cent of the 1978 United States commercial crop.

Sheep producers vote yes on referendum

DENVER, Colo. – U.S. sheep producers voted "yes" by a wide margin to continue their national lamb and wool promotion programs during the recent National Sheep Referendum. The national vote showed 75 per cent of the producers voting for passage of the Referendum and an 83 per cent "yes" vote based on the number of sheep represented. These figures represent about 25,000 sheep producers voting "yes" and 8,000 voting "no". Total sheep represented by the vote were 5.1 million head "yes" and 1 million head "no". The promotion programs are conducted by the Denver-based American Sheep Producers Council whose activities are controlled by sheep industry representatives from states and regions across the country.

Robert H. Blackford, ASPC president and a California sheepman, said, "It is highly important that we promote our products to American consumers. The sheep industry has wisely voted to continue this vital work. The additional funds ASPC will receive as a result of this referendum will be put to good use on behalf of the entire industry. I am very proud of the industry's longrange vision to support its marketing programs. In addition, we very much appreciate the support this vote received from the National Wool Growers and National Lamb Feeders Associations and all other state and national sheep groups and individuals who got behind the effort."

This is the seventh sheep referendum that has been conducted by USDA. All referendums have passed with favorable margins from sheep producers. In order to pass the referendum, "yes" votes must be cast by two-thirds of the number of sheepmen voting, or those voting "yes" must represent two-thirds of the number of sheep owned by those voting.

State forest firewood available

POTTSTOWN – The Bureau of Forestry of the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Resources has announced that firewood is again being sold in the State Forests as in past years. Homeowners can obtain firewood from the State owned forests for a minimal charge, provided they have enough energy to cut it and the proper transportation to carry it.

Anyone who might be interested in obtaining firewood should contact the Bureau of Forestry to obtain a permit to cut wood. The permit must be obtained from the District Forester who is in charge of the area where they are going. The cost is $3 per cord. Firewood can only be removed from those areas designated by the District Forester and only fallen, dead, and designated trees can be cut.

Any additional firewood information can be obtained from the District Forester's office at Rt. 23, Pottstown, R4 Pa. 19464.

Fats and oil output up

WASHINGTON, D.C. – In its first forecast for 1978/79 protein meal and fats and oils production USDA said this week production will be around seven per cent over 1977/78. This is based on Aug. 16 conditions for northern hemisphere crops and tentative projection for southern hemisphere crops. The board said there are two chances out of three that output will range between 79-85 million tons. World production of fats and oils is expected to be up about four per cent, with a probable range of 53 to 55.5 million tons. Prospective increases in foreign output will account for nearly all the increase in oil production and possibly 80 per cent of the expansion in meal. Last year most of the increase was in the U.S.

That's why Clay Equipment Corp. is so proud of its dealer organization. We know we have the quality equipment most dairymen are looking for. ABS tests bull 1000

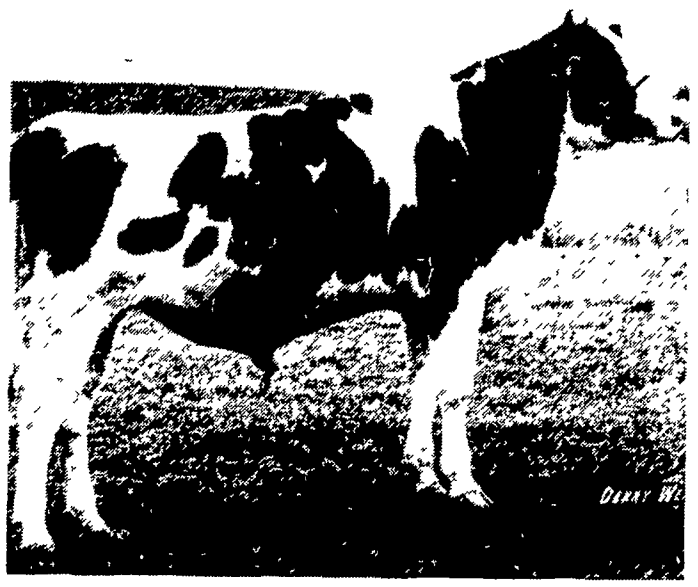
DEFOREST, Wis. – When semen from Bossir BOLD ONE was recently released, he became bull number 1000 to enter the ABS Progeny Test Program.

Beginning in 1963, when about 50 bulls were sampled, this program has grown to the extent that now over 100 bulls start their progeny tests each year.

A group of more than 700 progressive dairymen, who own over 95,000 cows, work within this program ... this group of practical dairymen are referred to as ABS Associated Herds.

Most of the young bulls that enter this program are the result of ABS contract matings. The best cows available are mated to the top bulls in the country to produce the bulls for testing.



Bossier Bold One is bull number 1000 to enter the ABS progeny testing program.

About one of every seven young bulls tested joins the ABS Proved Sire group.

Currently, ABS has 74 Holstein bulls from this program whose average 7/78 USDA Predicted Difference proof is +1034 pounds of milk.

Blackspot appearing on roses

MEDIA – The last two weeks of humid, rainy weather provided ideal conditions for the spread of a very common and destructive disease of roses – black spot. Already this season, the symptoms have been seen in far greater number than in previous years.

The first appearance of this disease is the black spots on the green foliage of all types of roses. Later, the leaves turn yellow and eventually drop-off.

It is important for one to pick-up these fallen leaves during the Summer and Fall so that the fungus has less material to overwinter on. In addition to picking up fallen, diseased leaves (which should not be put on the compost pile), is is necessary to apply a recommended fungicide (Benomyl or phaltan) at regular intervals of about seven to 10 days.

During periods of heavy rainfall, additional applications may be necessary to stop more rampant spread of this disease. A word for the wise for next year, advise experts, is for one to apply fungicides early in the season and then continue throughout the growing season, as recommended.

Lacebug control needed

MEDIA – Lacebugs attack many kinds of trees and shrubs. Among the most common are azalea, Pieris, rhododendron, hawthorn and London plane. Feeding by lacebugs on azaleas results in a grayish, stippled or blanced appearance to leaves. The injury is unsightly and plant vitality becomes greatly reduced.

If one sees molasses-like spots of excrement on the lower leaf surfaces, he has a clue to lacebug activity, says experts. Insecticides commonly used for lacebug control are malathion, carbaryl (Sevin), dimethoate (Cygon or DeFend) and Diazinon. One should be sure to aim your sprayer at the lower leaf surface to get adequate control.

Bergland notes transition time in his report to the President

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The "Report of the Secretary of Agriculture 1977," just released, said that 1977 began a period of transition for the American farmer. After three straight years of large world harvests, farmers felt far removed from the period of strong prices and unlimited production that domestic and foreign shortfalls brought during 1972-75. World and U.S. ag conditions in 1977, were much different and set the stage for the Food and Ag. Act of 1977, which the Secretary said has had a favorable impact on farm economic conditions and that net farm income for 1978 should be as much as 24 per cent higher than in 1977.

The next time you bite into a drumstick, consider this. There are more than 300 recognized breeds and varieties of chickens, with an equally large number of combinations of physical features.

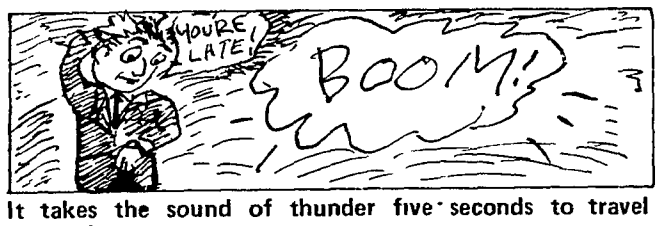
Manufacturing milk price will be supported at 80 per cent

WASHINGTON, D.C. – Manufacturing milk will be supported at 80 per cent of parity during the marketing year which starts Oct. 1, Secretary Bob Bergland announced this week. The exact support price will be determined after the Sept. 29 Ag. Prices report is out However, it is expected that it will be either $9.50 or $9.57 per hundred weight for milk with milkfat content of 3.5 per cent, compared with the present support of $9.21. USDA estimates that supports for milk with the annual average butterfat of 3.67 per cent will be either $9.73 or $9.80, comparing with the present $9.43 at average test. The law requires that milk be supported at 80 to 90 per cent of parity, to assure an adequate supply of milk, to reflect changes in cost of production and to assure dairy farmers an income that will enable them to maintain sufficient productive capacity to meet anticipated future needs. Thus, to enable manufacturing plants, on the average, to pay producers at least the support price for their milk, the gov't buys butter, cheese and nonfat dry milk to keep supplies and prices in line.



It takes the sound of thunder five seconds to travel one mile.

SILAGE TREATMENT TIME IS HERE!

Ensil-ate™

Developed by

MASTER MIX RESEARCH

The Silage Preservative With A Real Difference

WHAT IS IT?

ENSIL-ATE is a silage additive designed to

- Reduce Rancidity
- Prevent Oxidation and Over-Heating
- Inhibit Mold Growth
- Increase Palatability of any Ensilage

$1 invested for ENSIL-ATE per ton of silage stored can return $3 per ton in added feeding value

ENSIL-ATE has its own feed value!

- Protein 11 percent - Fat 2 percent - Fiber 35 percent

ENSIL-ATE adds highly digestible protein and fiber in the form of ground soybran flakes.

ENSIL-ATE prevents initial run off.

- 10 lbs. of Ensil-Ate will absorb 40 lbs. water.

ENSIL-ATE is perfectly safe to use and contains only all-natural proteins.

ENSIL-ATE is backed by leading experimental stations as well as Master Mix Research.

HOW IS IT USED?

ENSIL-ATE requires no additional equipment.

It should be added to your silage at the rate of 10 lbs. per ton. Packaged in 50 lb. paper sacks, each bag will effectively treat 5 tons of silage. Simply spread the bag on the silage wagon before or during filling.

REMEMBER -

You can mix 10 lbs./ton easier and more thoroughly than 1 lb./ton of silage that most additives require.
ENSIL-ATE can also be added as the silo is being filled.

FOR MORE DETAILS ON HOW YOU CAN GET AN AVERAGE ADDED RETURN OF $3 FOR EVERY TON OF SILAGE YOU PUT UP, CALL OR VISIT YOUR MASTER MIX DEALER TODAY!

YOU'LL BE GLAD YOU DID!

Dauphin County DHIA Monthly Report

AUGUST 1978

Lolly and Kathy were the respective champions for milk and butterfat production in the Dauphin County DHIA program for lactations completed last month. Lolly, owned by John Hertzler, pumped out 22,751 pounds of milk, testing 2.7 per cent butterfat for 622 pounds of butterfat. Lauden Farms, as owner of Kathy, took the honors for butterfat production. Kathy, a 6-year old Holstein, finished with 20,499 pounds of milk, a 4.1 per cent test and 836 pounds of butterfat.

DeKalb introducing new seed corn varieties

By JOYCE BUPP
Staff Correspondent

DALLASTOWN – "Dig that cultivator out from under the apple tree; and if you haven't been doing any cultivating in corn, try a small block of it in the field next year," advocated Ken Miller.

Miller is the Eastern regional agronomist for Dekalb, Inc. He made the above observation during the firm's area Field Day, held September 7 at the Charles Hess farm.

This was the second consecutive year that Hess and the nationally-known seed firm teamed up to plant several acres in carefully monitored test plots. The trial areas, planted in four, eight and sixteen row sections, represented a broad scope of currently popular, and some not so popular, cultural practices.

Recommendations on returning to the almost-forgotten practice of cultivating field corn were stressed by Miller as "the one thing to remember if you don't remember anything else today."

The agronomist noted that the heavy use of herbicides, such as the well-known Atrazine, has almost put cultivation tools out of business. Now pest grasses and other weeds formerly controlled by chemical applications threaten to build up resistance to the sprays.

Citing studies done at the University of Delaware, Miller suggested that yield increases of 12 to 18 bushels of corn to the acre may be gained from just one well-turned cultivating trip.

"Does it pay?" he questoned. "It it's done when the corn is fairly small, not over 18 inches tall, and does not tear out the plant root systems by going too deep, a lot of people are saying 'yes, it does pay'."

For farmers who intend to continue corn cropping using no-tillage methods, Miller also had a few suggestions for cleaning up weeds that threaten to become herbicide resistant.

Acidity levels greatly determine the success of herbicide applications; when soil acidity falls below recommended levels, grass and weed killers simply will not work. Miller noted that some no-till growers are routinely spreading a half-ton of lime per acre annually, to maintain soil acidity at peak herbicide efficiency levels.

Running two soil tests for no-tillage was also recommended by the agronomist. Acidity tests should be taken at a depth of about three inches, while fertilizer and mineral needs are most accurately sample at seven or eight inches underground.

One weed that came in for a special warning at the field day was pigweed. This pest appears to be moving north from Maryland fields in unprecendented numbers, turning up in some spots with populations as large as one hundred plants to the square foot.

But what will happen to corn-on-the-cob? Dekalb personnel Ed Wilson, left, and Herb Ayres examine a genetic-trait corn plant in which the seed kernels develop within the tassel. Eventually, corn stalks with "heads" of this type will probably be harvested much like fields of small grains.

A fairly new tillage tool that's won high acclaim by the researchers is the subsoiler. Miller credits the heavy-toothed implement with loosening the subsoil crust as deep as 14 to 16 inches, allowing air, moisture and tiny corn roots to penetrate to greater depths. Results from the 1977 trials at the same spot on the Hess farm showed that the highest yields from the entire plot came from the rows where the subsoiler had been used.

"Bigger and bigger moldboard plows for corn have seen their best days," insists the agronomist. "The larger the moldboard, the greater pressure on the plow point itself. That constant pressure compacts,

Lebanon County DHIA Monthly Report

AUGUST 1978

Bennetch Brothers and Arnold Acres were owners of high producing cows for lactations completed last month in the Lebanon County DHIA program. Bennetch Brothers' No. 71 led the milk production list with her credits of 26,059 pounds. She carried a 3.4 per cent and produced 882 pounds of butterfat. Her stablemate, No. 3, checked in with 25,627 pounds of milk, a 3.2 per cent test, and 812 pounds of butterfat. Both are Holsteins, aged 5-10 and 5-8, respectively. Arnold Acres' "Debbie" captured the butterfat title with her record of 22,111 pounds of milk, a 4.0 per cent test and 885 pounds of butterfat.

WHAT'S NEW

SILAGE INOCULANT

Sila-bac brand silage inoculant, recently introduced by Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc., helps speed, control and direct natural fermentation to conserve more dry matter and feed value in silage, says the manufacturer. Proper fermentation also improves appearance, smell and palatability of silage, Pioneer says.

Fine-grained and non-toxic, this product contains selected live bacteria needed to turn chopped forage into quality silage. Addition of these bacteria helps promote rapid production of the lactic, acetic and propionic acids crucial to preserving silage.

Application of one pound of inoculant per ton of freshly-chopped forage normally results in silage with a pH of about 4.9 in seven to ten days, or about one-half the time required if adequate numbers of the right kind of bacteria are not present. Fast fermentation cuts the time that undesirable bacteria can produce butyric acid, carbon dioxide and runoff. It also reduces the ability of mold to burn carbohydrates, thus lowering temperatures during fermentation.

Sila-bac brand silage inoculant can be applied to corn, sorghum, alfalfa and all kinds of grass silage. Addition of inoculant is by granular applicator or by hand, if necessary.

Sila-bac brand silage inoculant resulted from research conducted at the Pioneer NuLabs Division research center in Portland, Oregon. This inoculant is available from salesmen selling Pioneer brand seeds.

Expanded warehousing and loading facilities will be built to the front of the present storage area, above foreground. The expansion project of the Camp Hill mill is the largest ever undertaken by Purina.

Purina expanding Camp Hill mill

ST. LOUIS, Mo. – It was announced recently by Warren W. Elfrank, Director of Operations-North Atlantic Area for Ralston Purina's Chow Division, that the Company's Board of Directors had approved a major capital expansion and renovation program for its Harrisburg, Pa. feed plant. According to Elfrank, "This is the largest major expansion and renovation of an operating Chow plant in the history of the Company, and will enable us to serve our dealers more effectively in the future."

Among the improvements to be made are: increased storage capacity in the existing bulk station; 15,000 additional square feet of sack warehouse space; the addition of a new computer controlled batch mixing system; a new truck dumper and scale; and the replacement of the present horse and dairy coarse feed unit. Other improvements include: the relocation of electrical starters, control centers and electrical feeder lines; a new mill office and quality assurance laboratory; and renovation of the employee lunch room and locker ara.

Elfrank explained that there would be periods that different units of the mill would be temporarily closed as the various improvements are made. All dealers will be kept completely up-to-date on timetables and completion dates. "We are very excited about this expansion and sincerely believe it is ample evidence that we at Ralston Purina Company believe our dealer organization and many loyal customers in the North Atlantic Area are among the finest in the United States," he said.

Somerset Countian wins twice at Buck

THE BUCK — A modified tractor powered by an Allison aircraft engine provided a Somerset Countian with two victories at the Buck Tractor Pulls last week. Willard Will, a regular contestant here, reached paydirt in the heavyweight (12,000 pound) open class and also took first place in the 9000 pound open class.

Will is just one of many active tractor pullers from all across Pennsylvania and several neighboring states who test their machines' power and their own driving skills at The Buck. The nation's only exclusive tractor pulling stadium is located just north of here along Route 272. Thousands of spectators fill the stands each Saturday evening to witness the spectacular displays of power.

Lively Leader 4-H dogs travel on the train

By KENDACE BORRY

STRASBURG — If you had been riding the Strasburg Rairoad last Sunday, you would have thought it was going to the dogs. Even though the 'no pets allowed' signs were in plain view, there were members of the canine family riding the train.

But these young dogs were not your average household pets, just out for a Sunday afternoon outing. They belong to the members of the Lively Leaders 4-H Seeing Eye Puppy Club, which is located in Wenonah, New Jersey.

The puppies are given to the young 4-H'ers by the Seeing Eye, Inc, to be trained and raised until they are ready to start their instruction that will teach

(Turn to Page 134)

Soybean association will look at foreign trade possibilities

HUDSON, Iowa -- "Agriculture Trading Opportunities in the Middle East" will be the topic of a two-day conference to be conducted by the American Soybean Association (ASA) in cooperation with the Foreign Agriculture Service in St. Louis, Mo., early in December. The conference, scheduled for December 4 and 5 at the Airport Marriott Hotel, will serve as both a forum for discussion on developing market opportunities for oilseeds, feed and livestock in the Middle East and to dedicate the new world headquarters of the American Soybean Association. The ASA will move from Hudson, Iowa, to new offices in St. Louis in mid-October.

According to ASA President Meryln Groot, the conference program will feature knowledgeable trade leaders from the Middle East as well as experienced representatives of the U.S. government and industry.

"We want to share current knowledge and information on the status of the oilseed, poultry and feed industries in the Middle East so that participants can take full advantage of the opportunities currently opening to them," explains Groot.

Emphasizing the practical aspects of the meeting, Groot says the speakers will provide valuable "how to" information for anyone considering current or future marketing efforts in the Middle East. Discussion will include topics such as how to do business in the Middle East, agri-marketing opportunities in the Arab World, legal framework for Middle East trade and distribution and marketing tools available from the U.S. government.

Breeds and varieties in the American class of poultry have provided most of the stock used in our early broiler industry, with the Barred Plymouth Rocks, Rhode Island Reds, and New Hampshires figuring prominently. These breeds were considered excellent "dual purpose" chickens, good for both meat and egg production. However, as the need for faster growth and white-feathered broilers came about, primary breeders used not only the White Plymouth Rocks but also the fast-growing, broad-breasted Cornish breeds from the English class.

1 OUT OF 3 DAIRYMEN ARE WORMING THEIR HEALTHY-LOOKING COWS. SOON IT'LL BE 1 OUT OF 2.

HERE'S WHY.

More and more profit-minded dairymen are convinced their healthy-looking, high-producing herds are infected by worms. Even in cold northern states.

They're convinced that worms can slow growth of young stock and delay maturity of heifers.

They're convinced worms cut milk production in their milkers.

What makes them think so?

Large-scale trials, demonstrations, and experiments in Wisconsin and elsewhere have shown how widespread and damaging worms really are The figures are convincing (Data on request.)

More dairymen are worming because they are learning about worms: how they reproduce and do damage, and how worm control with TBZ®, the Pre-Freshening Cattle Wormer, can help pay off.

TBZ (thiabendazole) is a registered trademark of Merck & Co Inc

Knowing is believing

Once the facts are known, it isn't hard to believe that 9 out of 10 herds have worms. Or, why milk losses can be high. Or, why a worm-control program can pay for itself many times over.

Get the facts

Get the facts for yourself. Send for this 16-page, easy-to-read, illustrated booklet on worming of dairy herds It's free, it's helpful, and it may give you some of the most important management information you'll get this year. Why not sit down and send for it now.

4-H winners named for York breeding sheep show

While opening Friday of the York Fair might have been a day off from school for many 4-H youngsters, it was not necessarily a vacation. Instead, their day was spent exhibiting in the first classes of breeding competition, the kick-off activity for livestock judging at this year's fair.

Two sisters from Airville battled for the winnings in the Corriedale breeding classes. Bridget Morton took all the top spots, with champion ram lamb, champion ewe and first place pair. Jessica Morton won the reserve ram lamb, reserve ewe and second place pair, as well as first place ewe lamb.

Brian Bankert, Hanover, exhibited the champion ram in the Dorset breed and followed up that winning with the reserve champion ewe. Champion Dorset ewe was earned by Laurie Dobrosky of Glen Rock. Lisa Myers of Seven Valleys exhibited the reserve champion ram lamb.

In the Hampshire category, Red Lion 4-H'er Shelly Bankert defeated all comers to carry off all the purple ribbons. Following in the second and third spots in several classes were Tom and Dan Muller of Delta. Second place in the Hampshire pair was won by Heidi Dietz of Loganville.

Shropshire placings came out as almost a tie in the duel between competitors Mark Ebaugh of Delta and Gus Parlette, Airville. Ebaugh exhibited the champion ram, while Parlette finished with the grand champion ewe and top pair. The boys switched in winning the reserve placings in each category.

Shelly Bankert repeated her winning performance when it came time to judge the Southdown entries. The youngster from Red Lion captured champion and reserve placings in both the ram and ewe divisions, and finished off the victory by taking the first spot in the pairs category.

Suffolk breed top placings also went to one customer, with Troy Ness of Dallastown exhibiting the champion ram, champion and reserve ewe and pair. Linda Ebaugh, Delta, won the reserve Suffolf ram rosette and Mark Ebaugh showed the second place pair of lambs.

Sarah Lau, Loganville, captured the coveted places in the Oxford breed. She collected the championship in the ram, ewe and pair divisions, while Jon Janney of Brodbecks, earned the reserve places in the same divisions.

Ginseng shipments soar

WASHINGTON, D.C. – One U.S. agricultural export that doesn't get much publicity is ginseng. But exports of this herb climbed to a record $26.5 million last year. It was 48 per cent over the prior year, USDA's Foreign Ag. Service reports. Ginseng is prized in the Orient for its supposed properties as a stimulant, tonic, and aphrodisiac among others. The American variety is native to eastern hardwood forests from the Ozarks to the Atlantic whereever soils are well drained. American ginseng was exported to the Far East even before the American Revolution, despite the Orient producing a lot of its own. Daniel Boone was reported to have shipped, for eventual export, several tons of ginseng root that he had gathered in Kentucky. Almost all U.S. ginseng is exported, and most of it is cultivated, though wild ginseng commands a higher price. Most of it from here goes to Hong Kong, but recently the People's Republic of China bought 225 kilograms of American seed hoping it will be more resistant to the blight that can decimate the Chinese crop. On the Hong Kong market American ginseng is $231 - $235 per kg.

Pa. dairy princess to be crowned Sept. 27

HARRISBURG – State Agriculture Secretary Kent Shelhamer has announced the 22nd annual Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Coronation, to be held September 27 in Camp Hill. The coronation is part of the All-American Dairy Show Recognition Banquet scheduled to begin at 6:30 p.m. at the Penn Harris Motor Inn.

The 1978 Pennsylvania Dairy Princess, Sandy Miller, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Miller of Hamburg, R2 in Berks County, will crown her successor at the event. She has been promoting Pennsylvania milk and dairy products this Summer, traveling thousands of miles under the direction of the Keystone Milk Marketing Council, Inc., in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

This year 43 local dairy princesses representing 48 counties will be competing for the title. These young ladies have already been actively involved in promotional activities for milk and dairy products at the local level.

The Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show will run September 25 to 29 at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg. The show features entries of six dairy cattle breeds in competition for over $60,000 in premiums, and boasts three national shows.

The All-American, sponsored by the Pennsylvania Dairy and Allied Industries Association, in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture and the Pennsylvania Farm Show Commission, has since its inception in 1964 attracted exhibitors of the best in dairy cattle from dairy breeders and farmers around the world.

Shelhamer reminded all those coming to the show of the recent opening of the River Relief Route, a four-lane highway directly linking Interstate Route 81 to Cameron Street where the Farm Show Complex is located. Travel time from Route 81 and from the Farm Show Complex is now less than two minutes via the recently opened interchange.

Tickets for the All-American Dairy Show Recognition Banquet and Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Coronation are still available by writing to Mr. Charles A. Itle, Manager of the All-American, at the Farm Show Building, P.O. Box 3362, Harrisburg, PA 17120, or by calling 717-787-2905.

Swedish IFYE member visiting Lancaster Co.

By SALLY BAIR
Staff Correspondent

ELM – The differences between people of one nation and people of another nation are very small; people share the same basic problems. So concludes Jan Anders Widmark, a 27-year-old native of Sweden, who is visiting this country through the auspices of the International 4-H Youth Exchange program.

Widmark has spent nearly five months observing the American people and their farms, and is currently spending two weeks with the J. Harold Grube family in Elm. From Lancaster County he travels to Berks County and then will return to Sweden after some free time. His first host family stays were in Colorado.

In all, Widmark will have visited eight families, and he expresses great affection for each family visited. However, he adds, "I was a little disappointed that there is not as much difference in our family life as I thought it would be." Being careful not to generalize, he said that living with the eight families has made it difficult to characterize a single American family.

Widmark said, "Some families never visited their relatives; some visit a lot. I have seen American families who watch a lot of television. This is not possible in Sweden because there is no television in the daytime." Other phenomenon which he experienced here, "We don't have family reunions - or picnics."

There was a great deal of laughter as he talked about the popularity of picnics and "finger food" potato chips and hamburgers, for instance. He characterized the food here as "great," but noted that there are differences from family to family. He was quite pleasantly surprised at his first host family to be served Swedish meatballs upon his arrival.

Widmark said coffee is very important in socializing in Sweden. "When friends visit we always offer coffee, and often we will clear the table after a meal, start the dishwasher and sit down for a cup of coffee."

It takes just a short time to realize that Widmark is a serious minded young man, intent upon learning all he can about this country. A public administration graduate of the university, Widmark is presently working as assistant manager to the mayor of his county in Sweden. He explains that the work of county commissioners and mayor is combined in his country.

Because of his position he is highly knowledgeable about government programs and long range planning. He also has a keen interest in public administration in this country, and has scheduled both visits to nursing homes and an appointment with Mayor Scott next week. He also hopes to meet Congressman Robert Walker while here.

Widmark, whose English is fluent, has some comments about the marked differences between Sweden, which offers a wide variety of government programs, and the United States. "Our whole government is more efficient, but the basic difference is that we still trust our politicians." Widmark noted that in conversations he finds that everyone has elements of mistrust for politicians. If this continues he warns, "You'll lose the base for your democracy, because democracy is based on trust." He is so interested in the concept of corrupt politician he said he would like to prepare a newspaper article on it.

Agriculture in Sweden has a distinct advantage over agriculture here: there is a stated government goal which aims to keep farms on a family basis. Widmark explains, "To purchase land, a buyer must have permission from the government - even the wife or child of the seller." Farmland can only be purchased by

When you treat bloody scours (swine dysentery), you're only fighting part of the problem

Bloody scours is a cyclic disease Treatment with Lincomix® (lincomycin) will disrupt the cycle and bring it under control

But once treatment stops, bloody scours can, and often does, break out again even among animals you thought had recovered

Protect against bloody scours all the way to market with Lincomix.

For effective control of bloody scours all the way to market, start your herd on Lincomix at the first signs of the disease The treatment level is 100 grams of lincomycin per ton of feed After three weeks at this level, or following disappearance of symptoms, continue medication at 40 grams lincomycin per ton of feed up to six days before slaughter

And on those farms with a history of bloody scours, feed 40 grams lincomycin per ton of feed to keep outbreaks from recurring, even though symptoms are not apparent someone willing to farm it, and Widmark says there are discussions underway which would be legally binding in making a buyer of land promise to keep the land in farming. The government is so firm about wanting family-based farming that if there is enough acreage to make one large farm from two small ones, the government prefers it to remain two farms. "They want family operated farms," he sates simply.

See us today Lincomix belongs in your hog rations!

Widmark acknowledged that some people find this restricts their freedom, but it does maintain the official goal of keeping land in agriculture.

Sweden suffers some of the same growing pains as here, but he said planning for city development began over 30 years ago, adding that it is not unusual for a county government to purchase land with an eye to using it in ten years. In the meantime they plan how it will be used, make plantings, decide about homes, businesses and industrial use, then resell it for development.

Widmark said he feels the average Swedish citizen accepts governmental restraints easier than Americans because they trust the people making laws and believe they are acting in their best interests. He said he sees an independence in Americans whereby they automatically feel they must reject any restrictions put upon them by the government. He philosophized that this reflects the basic character of those who founded America, coming here to get away from tyrannical governments. This independence remains.

Twenty-five per cent of the population in Sweden is employed in the public service sector of government, Widmark says, and he expounds on the many programs offered citizens. The programs range from free medical care with 90 per cent of a worker's salary paid from the day of illness to free dental care up to age 16. Education is free, with no college tuitition which means that only grades are important in applying to college, Widmark says. The county takes over the care of the elderly by providing home care as long as possible, pocket money and then nursing home care when necessary. There are county day care centers which meet 80 per cent of the need, according to Widmark, and he said the centers provide excellent care, with no more than five children per teacher. There is a housing allowance and an allowance of $500/year for each child to help "level out" income.

There is also a price to be paid for the "free" government service. Widmark notes that income tax is at the rate of 37 per cent on $12.00 per year. There are property taxes and a sales tax which can go has high as twenty per cent. However, he noted, "The sales tax is included in the price - you never get a surprise when you pay for something."

Widmark said common grocery items like flour and milk cost about the same in the two countries. Meat and clothing are more expensive in Sweden, with a good steak costing between $5.00 and $6.00 per pound. He added, "I think housing is more expensive in Sweden. Inflation is higher in the building industry there. You couldn't get a four bedroom house for less than $80,000."

Do people complain about the high cost? Yes, Widmark said, "People complain a lot. But I work for the county and I see what they get for it."

Farming in Sweden has some differences, but Widmark said that technology is the same. "Farm techniques are pretty much the same and farmers make a lot of hay silage." In the northern part of Sweden where Widmark grew up on his father's 200 acre farm, there are three months of daylight. In response to how one sleeps, Widmark said simply that one just closes one's eyes! North Sweden is on the same latitude as Alaska and Widmark said it is possible to plant barley and oats at the beginning of June and harvest it by mid-September because it gets so much sunlight. Additional crops in South Sweden are Winter and Summer wheat, sugar beets, rape and rye. "The biggest difference in crops is that we don't grow corn. The Summer doesn't get that hot." Conversely the winters are also not so severe.

Land prices vary, but Widmark told of a 40 cattle dairy farm, with barn and house, 100 tillage acres and 200 forested acres which sold for $150,000. He said land in the north might cost between $300-$400 per acre, and in the more heavily populated south is could run as high as $2,000-$3,000 per acre. He said he thinks the high prices paid in this county for land recently must make it uneconomical to farm.

A veteran of 16 years of 4-H work in his native Sweden, Widmark has studied 4-H in this country. The age in Sweden ranges from 7-25, with discussions underway to consider dropping the upper age limit. In fact, Widmark said he questions the wisdom of requiring 4-H'ers to leave at age 19 when they are just becoming actively involved and have so much to offer.

He observed, "Here 4-H parents care more. It is basically a family group. It seem that families who have kids in 4-H also have families involved." He finds this admirable and wishes more Swedish parents could be persuaded to spend time with the 4-H projects. "We don't have as much support as here."

Funding is a problem for the 4-H clubs in Sweden, and he said area agricultural instructors who carry out the program must spend a lot of time dealing with funding problems. Pamphlets and project books are sometimes written by leaders because there is no university behind the clubs providing basic educational material.

Projects are basically the same in the two countries. "I

NCEN luncheon planned Nov. 8

HARRISBURG – The Pennsylvania Poultry Federation has scheduled a "Friends of NCEN" luncheon for November 8, at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel in Philadelphia, site and date of the PEIA Regional Conference. The luncheon begins at 12:30 p.m. and features Mr. John F. Yarbrough, publisher of the Poultry Times, speaking on "Fighting for Your Future". Industrymen throughout the East will be selling the tickets which are fifty dollars per person.

NCEN is the National Commission on Egg Nutrition which has been at the forefront of the scientific dispute over cholesterol. The Commission is dependent upon voluntary industry contributions and this is the time of the year when funds are needed and solicited. PEIA currently provides office space and some office services free of charge to NCEN, but operational funds are also needed. PEIA is encouraging planners of regional conferences and meetings to schedule a fund raising luncheon for NCEN during their conferences. PEIA is planning two regional conferences this year, one on the East coast and one on the West coast. They asked the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation, as the host state, to organize the "Friends of NCEN" luncheon for the PEIA regional conference on November 8 to 9 in Philadelphia.

smoothes and hardens the subsoil to where nothing can penetrate it."

Plant specialists at the York County exhibit cited the 1978 growing season as "another worm year." Visitors to the plots saw corn borer infestations in the second generation stage. Holes eaten in the stalk by the worm became a starting point for the onset of stalk rot. After drilling through the stalk covering, the borers then work their way into the shank where the ear attaches to the stalk, weakening the attachment and causing ear drop. Growers were reminded to get borer infested corn out of the field just as early as possible to avoid heavy yield losses.

An especially interesting repeat feature of the test trials was the corn breeding plot. Included in that plot were rows of corn plants with unique characteristics used by genetic researchers in developing new hybrid seed. Stalk heights ranged from towering thirteen-foot giants with few ears to dwarf plants of two feet heavily laden with several ears.

Methods of developing single cross and three-way cross hybrids were explained by plant breeders who had planted mini-plots showing the detasseling of stalks to create the male and female rows necessary for hybrid seed growth.

Area growers who are interested in the results of the harvest of the trial plots may get additional information by contacting Ed Wilson, Dekalb Ag Research, Inc., 1625 East Market Street, York, Pa. 17403.

Historians reveal that the first poultry exhibition in America was held in Boston, Mass. in the year 1849. Over 1000 birds were exhibited. Competition among breeders created a desire to perfect various breeds and originate new ones. The continual importation and creation of new breeds and the growing interest in poultry shows required a standard by which fowls could be judged.

Mueller Fre-Heaters, Model B and Model C can be used with either Mueller Milk Coolers or with milk coolers made by other manufacturers

FREE HOT WATER!
There are many variables that determine how much hot water can be generated however a rule of thumb is that a Fre-heater operating on 60 degrees F well water will produce a volume of 140 degree F water similar to the amount of milk produced during a milking. Experience has shown that on most dairy farms enough hot water is produced to satisfy all hot water requirements

Horse plowing skills seen in Schaefferstown

By KENDACE BORRY

SCHAEFFERSTOWN — Early Americana buffs and horse fanciers were witness to a special treat last Saturday as Historic Schaefferstown was host to their annual horse plowing contest and demonstration. Throughout the day, spectators were able to see competitions and events showing how horses, mules, and ponies were, and in some instances still are, used on the farm.

There were two different plowing contests held during the day—one for horses and one for ponies.

There were six different teams entered in the horse plowing division. Winner of the event was Charles Lindsay, Greencastle.

This was Lindsay's first year in the contest, and he had a three horse team, using his animals Bonnie, Belle, and Dewey. He related that he had seen the contest last year and decided to enter.

Lindsay uses his horses for work on his own farm, stating that they haul manure, rake hay,, and plow his fields. He uses purebred Belgians, the breed he has had since 1956, when he received his first purebred.

A farmer all his life, Lindsay stated that his horses also are used for hayrides and parades, having performed in the Preakness Parade, Baltimore, and the Apple Blossom festival, Winchester, Va. He has twelve horses in all.

The second place team in the horse plowing was also owned by Lindsay, but the horses were used for the plowing contest by John Garber, Waynesborough. In third place was John O'Donnell, Delta R1, who had won the contest last year, and proudly admitted that he was 75 years young and still plowing.

Fourth place went to Wilbur Hartranft, Bernville R2, with E. G. Wagner, Chambersburg, named fifth; and Aaron Mays, Womelsdorf R1, placing sixth.

In the pony plowing there were three contesting teams.

Allan W. Mays, Sr., Myerstown R1, won that division with his three pony team.

These ponies too are used for work around the farm at home, with Myers noting that he works about 20 acres using the pony team.

One of the animals on his team is Polly, a 17-year-old animal whom he fondly referred to as All-around-Polly.

"I always liked ponies," he commented. "So I got Polly, broke her, and started driving her in sulky races. Then I taught her to respond to single lines and bought two others. And now they're used for plowing."

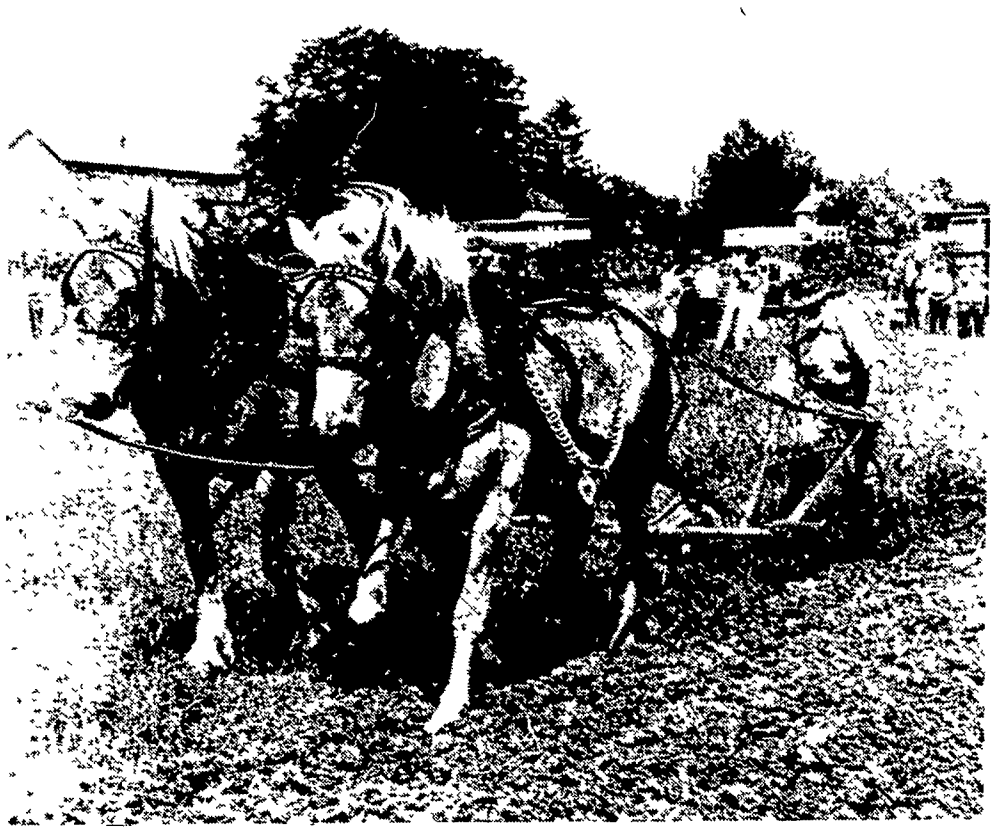
In second place in the pony plowing was Allan Strickler, Bernville R2, with Harold Haag being the plowman. And in third place were the youngest members of the competition, Mike Esh and John Allen, 13 and 14 respectively

The two third place ponies, Polly and Dolly, both nine years old, were owned by Mike Esh, Newburg R2. He entered the contest because he thought it would be a challenge, relating that he had taught the ponies to plow himself, and had only done his first plowing the week before. Helping him out was his friend John.

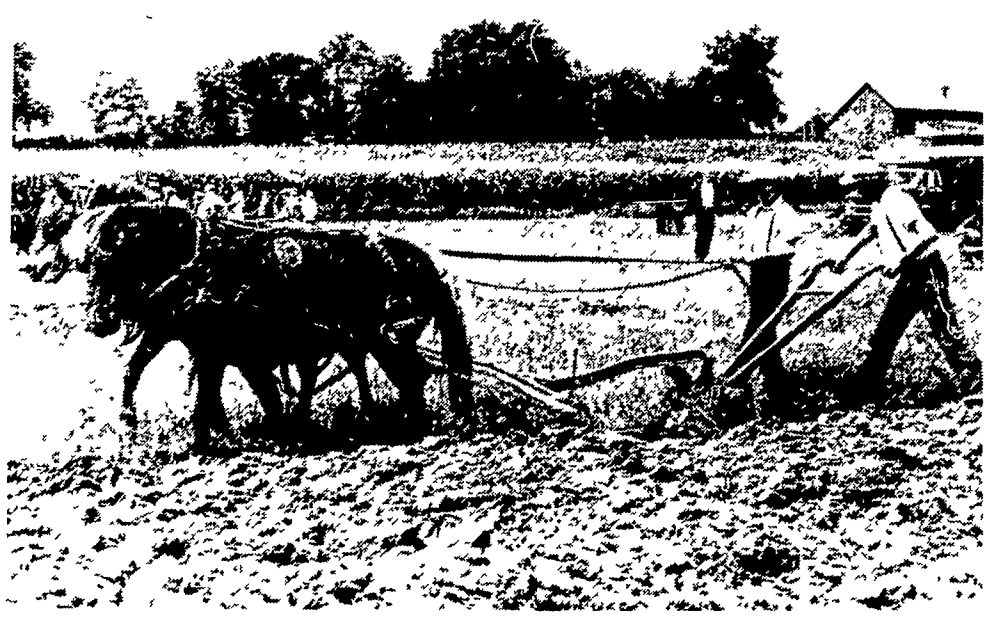
Judges of the plowing contest were John High, Myerstown; and Ray M. Sattazahn, Womelsdorf.

The contest was judged on the plowman's control of the team, the condition of the equipment, the penetration of the furrow, the evenness, depth, and straightness of the furrow, the trash

(Turn to Page 127)



Everett Wagner, Chambersburg R10, took his two blonde sorrels, Linda and Pattie, through their paces as he competed in the plowing contest. He uses his horses at home for plowing, planting corn, hauling manure and sowing grain, simply stating that doing so suits him better than using a tractor.



Mike Esh, 13, and John Allen, 14, from Newburg R2, in Franklin Co. were the youngest competitors in the plowing contest, entering in the pony plowing. Mike told that he trained the ponies himself, and that he had only done his first plowing a week before the contest.

Hack and Mac, the two four year old oxen plowing at the Schaefferstown horse plowing contest, are owned by Wyeth McClure, from Holtwood R1, who is seen standing in the background.

Pennsylvania field workers wage rates for all methods of pay, when converted to an hourly rate, averaged $2.33 per hour during the survey period, a decrease of seven cents. Livestock workers in Pennsylvania averaged $2.25 per hour, three cents more than the $2.22 average last July.

Nationally, the total number of workers on farms July 9-15 was 4,954,500, a decline of 105,000 from last July. Of that total, family workers and operators totaled 3,114,900, a decline of 72,000. Hired workers decreased from 1,872,600 in 1977 to 1,839,600 this July.

The average weekly hours worked by farm operators in the United States was 39.2 hours and that of other family workers averaged 39.5 hours. Hired workers averaged 35.8 hours nationally during the survey period.

Emergency loan procedures change

HARRISBURG -- Modifications in procedures for making Farmers Home Administration Loans to disaster victims would save affected farmers time and trouble, according to State Agriculture Secretary Kent D. Shelhamer.

The new procedures, which have followed the passage of Public Law 95-334, give power to the FmHA State Director to implement the Emergency Loan Programs when a disaster strikes one or more farmers. After the occurrence of a natural disaster, following an assessment of the damage by county Disaster Committees, the State FmHA Director can immediately begin the emergency programs for those farmers who are affected.

Shelhamer called the passage of P.L.95-334 "a positive first step in eliminating the many problems farmers face when dealing with federal disaster assistance programs." The new provisions should not only cut bureaucratic red-tape and reduce waiting time, but also enable more farmers to become eligible for Emergency Loan Programs."

"In the past, when just a few farmers were hit, it was often difficult to get the attention of state and federal officials. These new procedures should allow us to deal on a more personal basis within the state and improve the effectiveness of these emergency programs."

P.L.95-334 eliminates the need for a Governor's request and approval by the Secretary of the U.S. Department of Agriculture prior to implementation of the Emergency Loan Program after a natural disaster. However, when the President declares a major disaster, such as the floods of 1972 and 1975 or when USDA makes an emergency declaration, the Emergency Loan Program will continue to operate as before.

The Agriculture Secretary noted that Emergency Loan Interest rates are scheduled to increase on October 1. from three to five per cent for actual losses and to 8.5 per cent for financing above actual losses from the disaster.

Greenhouse course offered

UNIVERSITY PARK — Small greenhouses can fill a flower lover's needs. For plotted plant culture and year round cut flower production, they are essential. Autumn is a good time to build a small greenhouse.

There are two basic types: the lean-to or attached, and the free standing. The type one selects varies with his home structure and should be well built.

Extending the length of growing season is the main reason for having home greenhouses.

Artificial heat must be provided. Hot air, steam and hot water are ways to distribute heat. A person's selection will depend on the size of greenhouse, availability of fuels, possibility of using his home heating system, cost of installing, and maybe other factors.

Once the greenhouse shell has been erected, benches, watering devices, shelves, and other conveniences must be selected and installed. Personal preferance and size of greenhouse determine the kind one chooses.

To teach small greenhouse construction and management, Penn State offers correspondence course "The Home Greenhouse." Kinds of houses and building details are explained.

To get the course, one can send $3.50 to "Home Greenhouse," Box 5000, University Park, Pennsylvania 16802. A person can make check payable to Penn State.

Horse course offered

UNIVERSITY PARK — Available from the Correspondence Course office at Penn State is a course on light horses.

Rewritten by Dr. Thomas L. Merrit, professor of animal industries at Penn State, the 11-lesson course discusses: horse anatomy and selection; reproduction; parasites; buildings; equitation; training; breeds; stable management; and unsoundness.

According to the course, practice and training of both horses and riders are necessary for satisfactory performance. Riders must control their mounts and control is centered on the mental, not the muscular activities of the horse.

To help one enjoy horse ownership more, a person should send for the course. Intended for the beginners, the information is valuable to members of riding clubs, and individuals who expect to buy a horse.

One can get the course by sending $6 to Light Horses, Box 5000, University Park, Pa. 16802, making the check payable to Penn State.

Most of our table egg-producing hen strains were established from the Mediterranean class of poultry, which has a large variety of birds under the Leghorn breed.

PennAg centennial convention starts Tuesday

EPHRATA — PennAg Industries Association headquartered here, will be celebrating 100 years of association activities at their annual convention September 19-21, at the Penn Harris Motor Inn in Harrisburg. The Centennial celebration is expected to turn out the largest convention crowd ever since this is the first state agribusiness association to achieve a century of service. The original PennAg Industries Association was formed as The Pennsylvania State Miller's Association on January 8, 1878. Like many associations, its beginnings were founded on a need to organize industrymen for the strength, protection, and preservation of the industry. Specifically, the concern at the time was the encroachments by Western flour on Eastern markets due to reportedly discriminatory railroad rates that gave Western flour an unfair competitive advantage.

Chairman of the PennAg Centennial, George (Bill) Robinson, and president of PennAg Industries, William E. Ryan, report an impressive program has been completed for the pretigious event. On Tuesday, September 19, the West Shore Country Club will host the Old Dusties Golf Tournament. On Wednesday, September 20, there will be educational programs, an organized luncheon recognizing friends of the association, a Past-President's reception, and tours of the Capitol and William Penn Museum. The visit to the William Penn Museum will include the unveiling of the Rose Mill exhibit, an authentic full-scale working model of an early grist mill. On Thursday, September 21, there will be educational programs, the annual business meeting, an organized luncheon featuring gubernatorial candidate Richard Thornburgh and possibly Peter Flaherty. The Thursday program will conclude with the gala reception and banquet featuring entertainment.

The convention will include a special historical exhibit depicting the history of the association and live presentations on stone dressing, millwrighting, and flour milling. There will, of course, be lots of prizes for those who have registered in advance, a commemorative souvenir for everyone, many distinguished state and national figures present and extensive quality entertainment.

Author noted

UNIVERSITY PARK — Donald L Ace, professor of dairy science Extension at Penn State, is author of a chapter in the 1978 USDA Yearbook of Agriculture.

The chapter, "The Dairy Goat," deals with all phases of feeding, housing, and management of the milk producing goat.

The yearbook, titled "Living on a Few Acres," focuses on people living on limited land and those who are looking forward to country living and wish to grow their own vegetables, fruits, milk, and meat.

The yearbook will be printed early next year.

Plant a fall cover crop and relax this winter.

A fall cover crop does a variety of things for you. It prevents excessive erosion problems. It conserves valuable soil moisture. Perhaps most important, it gives you the option of planting the No-Tillage way next spring. Just burn off the fall cover with ORTHO Paraquat CL herbicide and plant right into the stubble. For best results, apply Paraquat with ORTHO X-77 Spreader. Let's talk about it.

Senator Talmadge calling for more Japanese farm trade

WASHINGTON, D.C. — U.S. Senator Herman E. Talmadge, chairman of the Senate Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition, and Forestry, recently urged a high-level Japanese trade delegation to reduce their country's barriers to increased importation of U.S. farm commodities.

Talmadge said greater U.S. exports to Japan are necessary to overcome the "serious trade imbalance" that not exists between the two countries. Despite some progress through the current Multinational Trade Negotiations, Talmadge said the imbalance has "grown worse rather than better."

The Georgia Democrate cited an $8 billion U.S. deficit in American-Japanese trade last year, and a $6 billion gap for the first six months of this year.

Talmadge warned the Japanese that unless the trade problem is resolved through negotiations "Congress would have to act." The Georgia Democrat did not elaborate on what congressional action might be necessary.

Let's remember the part farming has played and still does in the development of the United States. It has provided us with the essentials to achieve what we have today. By providing food for our millions . . . natural fibers for our clothing . . . jobs for many of our people. Let's practice conservation to preserve this land that has given us life.

Work started on dairy center

UPPERCO, Md. – A ground-breaking ceremony for the new Hickory Hill Farm, Inc. Dairy Center took place recently in Upperco, Maryland.

Figuring in the formalities were the family of Raymond Armacost, Jr., comprised of his wife and their three sons together with their wives and two infant grandsons. The Armacosts have farmed land here for eight generations, part of the land being a grant from the King of England.

R. Franklin Armacost, III, Wayne L. Armacost and John Carvel Armacost, the three brothers who will figure most actively in the venture, turned the first spade of earth.

The new facility will consist of a 500 ft. x 140 ft. steel barn to house 500 Registered Holstein cows, a 24 stall polygon milking parlor, a milk storage area and offices. Target date for the initial use of the new quarters is early 1979.

Penn State specialists win awards

UNIVERSITY PARK – Three members of Penn State's co-operative Extension service staff have been named recipients of blue ribbon awards presented by the American Society of Agricultural Engineers for educational aids entered in national competition.

The 1978 awards were announced during the society's recent annual meeting held at Utah State University. The winning entries are being used in Penn State's educational programming.

N. Henry Wooding, Extension agricutural engineer, and William H. Folwell, Extension visuals specialist, jointly won an award for a slide set, "Land Application of Livestock Manure for Environmental Protection."

A circular, "Fire Safety", submitted by Dennis J. Murphy, Extension safety specialist, also received blue ribbon recognition.

coverage, and the evenness of the boundry.

After the contests were over, interested spectators were given the chance to try their luck at plowing as "their granddaddies did", and people were seen the rest of the morning attempting to make those animals "gee" and "haw" as they tried to plow a nice, straight even furrow.

Demonstrations of a one horse walking plow, a hill side walking plow, a two way riding plow, and oxen plowing was shown also during the morning.

During the afternoon there was a demonstration of a gang plow with six horses, a multi-hitch of 12 head of animals, a log jumping demonstration with six animals and wood sawing done with a horse as the tread power. There was also a log pulling contest.

The event was part of the Historic Strasburg's 11th annual Harvest Fair.

Md. Porkecue Cook-off won by Gail Gray

TIMONIUM, Md. – Gail K. Gray of Lexington Park, Md., made the 1978 Maryland Porkecue Cook-off, here, look easy as she won top honors with her "Barbecued Pork Spareribs" treat.

Mrs. Gray entered the contest some while back and had apparently forgotten about it. She learned she was a finalist while vacationing in Colorado. The Gray family had just barely returned from its western vacation before it was time to venture to the State Fair for the contest.

The Cook-off winner describes her recipe as, "something that has been around in our family for some time. It's simple and has always pleased people who have tried it."

Here's her winning recipe:

You need one rack or pork spareribs (approximately three pounds).

These are marinated for approximately two hours in the recipe marinade. Ribs are then cooked over "slow" coals and basted frequently with leftover marinade.

The marinade is prepared as follows: one-half cup soy sauce, three-quarters cup of honey, one small can pureed apricots, two heaping teaspoons brown sugar, and one teaspoon of ginger. Combine all five ingredients and heat until well blended, cool before using.

Other winners in the 1978 Porkecue were: Madaline Hall of Hebron who placed second (she was the 1977 winner); Vivian Levine of Columbia, Howard County, third; Ruth Dykes of Beltsville, Prince Georges County, placed fourth; and Rose Abner, of Millersville, Anne Arundel County, placed fifth.

Gail K. Gray of Lexington Park, Md., is shown here at work on her 1978 Maryland Porkecue winning dish of barbecued pork superibs. The contest, held at the Maryland State Fair in Timonium, drew 10 finalists and was sponsored by the Maryland Pork Producers Association.

Liming tip

FLEMINGTON, N.J. – Late Summer and Fall is a good time to apply lime, providing the weather cooperates.

Spreading trucks are more readily available now, and fields are usually in better condition for spreading equipment compared to early Spring.

And, in addition, a "now" application gives the limestone a chance to react before the next growing season.

All this goes for the home owner as well as the farmer.

WHAT'S NEW

VENTILATION BROCHURE

Methods of saving electricity and heat through improved ventilation control are outlined in a new brochure on the Vent-O-Matic Farm Air Conditioner.

Also discussed is the importance of VER ratings (Ventilation Efficiency Ratio) so that equipment is measured by the cubic feet of air moved for each watt of electricity used.

The brochure illustrates air movement patterns in various operating situations, equipment cutaways, specifications, and performance ratings for the various Vent-O-Matic models.

A copy of the brochure and other information may be obtained by contacting Tuscarora Electric Mfg. Co. Inc., Tunkhannock, Pa., 18657.

had hogs and calves as projects. Mostly we do our project work from May to August and in the Winter we do club activities. Judging is done on the project book."

Widmark is keenly interested in developing 4-H in urban areas, and is anxious to study urban 4-H programs here. He said there are a few successful projects where 4-H'ers have rented some country land and kept small animals and gardens. The animal projects were visited by day care center children and elementary students. "It was a success where we made it, but there is no money for expanding it." Widmark lamented. Despite the large sums of money spent on government programs, there seems to be no extra for 4-H. Widmark said, "The county won't pay more money."

In the United States Widmark says church life is more important than in Sweden. "All but one of my families went to church. Everywhere I went, people go to church. It is part of the social life. Everyone goes and meets and sees how everyone else it. People care for each other." He noted that the state church, of which he is a member, is Lutheran, and about six per cent of the population attends church with three per cent pursuing a religion other than the state religion.

Widmark said it surprised him to find that American families have problems with their family budget. It strikes him as incongruous that families should have several cars in the driveway, but worry about the cost of groceries. The United States had nearly twice as many cars as Sweden, but Widmark explained that cars are much more expensive there and public transportation is readily available. "Cars are so important to your society. There are drive-in movies, drive-in banks, and drive-in restaurants." He laughed at another American idiosyncrasy - that of driving a car around and around a parking lot to find the closest parking space. He remarked, "We are just happy to find a parking space - and a free one. We must pay $.20 an hour to park, and there are no free parking lots. He noted that young people must be 18 before driving and it costs $300 to get a license there.

Widmark says candidly that before he came here he would never have applied for the program if he could not have kept his job (which he can). Now, he says, "I would have left Sweden for the visit even if I couldn't keep my job. It is tremendous. It's hard to leave each family, but I hope to visit my Pennsylvania families again before I return. I am not in a hurry to get back."

He calls himself a missionary for the program, and enjoys giving speeches about his homeland. Before coming here he said he

"went through" 1500 children in a whole school, which he thoroughly enjoyed. "People here need to know about other countries because you don't learn it in the schools."

According to his host father J. Harold Grube, Widmark's visit is "the best thing that's happened to us all Summer." In fact, the whole Grube family is enthusiastic about his visit. There are four Grube children: Missy, 15; Tim, 19, Mike, 22, and Katie Anne Heisey, 24, who lives close by. Another enthusiast is Mrs. Grube's mother, Katie Keath, who is 79 years young and is enjoying the foreign visitor.

With his intricate knowledge of his home country and his great desire to learn about his host country, Widmark is being the perfect goodwill ambassador.

Grube said, "Anders called it a program of love, and love is really what it is all about."

Wildlife group appeals dismissal

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Despite a legal setback, the National Wildlife Federation will continue its fight to force the Carter Administration to explain why it has cut the U.S. Forest Service's budget request by 25 per cent.

NWF has announced it will appeal a ruling by U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell, in Washington, D.C., dismissing its suit against President Carter and the Office of Management and Budget.

The suit, filed in June. 1978, charged that the Administration violated the Forest and Rangeland Renewable Resources Planning Act when it cut the Forest Service's 1979 budget from $2.4 billion to $1.8 billion. According to NWF, the nation's largest citizen conservation group, the law requires the Administration to explain whether its proposed budget would carry out Forest Service policies already set by Congress, and if not, to give the reasons for requesting less money.

Federal milk order 4 amended, pooling requirement suspended

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — Dairy farmers operating under the Middle Atlantic federal milk marketing order have approved the amendment of their program. The amendment order, which goes into effect Oct. 1, will continue the current method of pricing Class I — or fluid-use — milk under the program but will change some pooling and diversion provisions.

More than 87 per cent of farmers represented in a U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) poll of dairy cooperatives approved the amended order, according to Herbert L. Forest, dairy official with USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service.

The present method of pricing Class I milk under the order, Forest said, is a basic formula, plus a $2.78 Class I differential. The Minnesota-Wisconsin price serves as the basic formula under the Middle Atlantic order.

Changes in the milk order would relax provisions for pooling a distributing plant and for diverting producers' milk to nonpool plants when it is not needed for fluid use at a distributing plant. Still another change would allow operators of partially regulated plants to increase Class I sales in the Middle Atlantic order area to a limited extent without becoming fully regulated under the order.

Also, a milk pooling requirement under the Middle Atlantic federal milk marketing order will be suspended for September and October.

Forest said the action suspends the requirement that a distributing plant sell at least 50 per cent of its milk for fluid use before it is eligible to have all its milk pooled and priced under the order. The suspension has been in effect since April.

The suspension was requested by Michaels Dairies, Inc., and Lehigh Valley Cooperative Farmers. They told USDA that a continuing downward trend in Class I — or fluid-use — milk sales means that some plants will not be able to meet the 50 per cent pooling requirement. As a result, some dairy farmers' milk would not be priced and pooled under the order.

CCC purchased no butter, cheese

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The Commodity Credit Corporation contracted in August to buy 14.7 million pounds of nonfat dry milk but no butter nor cheese, the USDA reported this week. The purchases were made under the dairy support program. During the month six million pounds of butter and 2.2 million pounds of cheese were sold for unrestricted use. As of Aug. 31, CCC had uncommitted inventories (in stock or under contract) of 216.1 million pounds of butter, 40 million pounds of cheese, and 598.9 million pounds of nonfat dry milk. Dairy products bought by the gov't are used mostly for domestic and foreign donations, but they are also available for sale at 110 per cent of current purchase prices.

Lively Leader 4-H dogs

them to be guide dogs for the blind. At the present time, in the different clubs located throughout New Jersey and Bucks County, Pa., there are approximately 230 dogs kept in family homes to be raised for this program. More homes are needed as the goal in New Jersey is to place 300 dogs throughout the state.

In the Lively Leaders 4-H, there are eight different families involved, with a total of 12 4-H members in the club.

According to leader Mrs. Lorraine Hudson, Wenonah, N. J., getting a puppy is a family 4-H project. According to her, the mother in the home plays an important part in the training of the puppy, for it is she that spends a great deal of time with the animal while the children are in school and the father is at work.

And part of the dog's training includes introducing them to as wide a variety of experiences as possible. And this includes the adventure of riding a train.

So, every year the Lively Leaders make their annual trek to the Strasburg Railroad, combining introducing their puppies to the sights and sounds of riding a train along with the fun and fellowship of a club picnic. Their train ride is made possible through the permission that is granted to them from the Strasburg Railroad.

One of the 4-H'ers who was present for the trip was Patti Kaminski, Sicklerville R1, N.J. ; a nine-year-old young lady who will shortly give up the first puppy she has raised as a 4-H project.

Throughout the train ride, Willow, a Golden Retriever now 15 months old, lay at her feet. As soon as a replacement puppy is found for Patti, Willow will leave for training at the Seeing Eye, Inc, Morristown. N.J.

Patti became involved with the 4-h dog program when a dog that her family had died, and her parents started to look for a replacement puppy. Patti wanted a dog that would be a friend and a pet, and she learned of the Seeing Eye 4-H program. As a result she received Willow. And even though she admits that she will hate to lose him, she is eagerly looking forward to getting her next puppy.

Patti is no stranger in 4-H for besides her interest in dogs, she keeps busy by being in the 4-H craft club. She is also planning to join the 4-H goat club in her area. But the 4-H puppy club is the only one where she will raise a pet to give away.

Other activities that all the members of the Lively Leaders 4-h are involved in include the Flemington Fair, where a competition is held for the dogs. The group also will speak to civic groups, with one such opportunity planned for September 25, when members, leaders, and the dogs will travel to the Pitman Womens Club in New Jersey. And during the upcoming 4-H week, the club will show a film depicting the 4-H aspects of their projects.

If anyone in the New Jersey area or Bucks County, Pa., is interested in more information about the Seeing Eye program, they can write to the Seeing Eye, Inc., 4-H Department, Morristown, N.J. 07960.

Milk Order amended

NEW YORK, N.Y. – Dairy farmers operating under the Eastern Ohio-Western Pennsylvania federal milk marketing order have approved changes of their program that will amend payment, pooling, and other provisions. These go into effect Oct. 1.

More than 88 per cent of dairy farmers voting in a U.S. Department of Agriculture referendum approved the amended order, according to Herbert L. Forest, dairy official with USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service.

Of the 7065 producers eligible, 5074 voted. The order as amended was approved by 4503 producers. At least two-thirds approval was needed.

One major change in payment procedures provides that the market administrator collect all required handler minimum payments and then pay producers and cooperative associations.

Another change lowers the shipping standards that the operator of a supply plant must meet to qualify his plant as a pool plant under the order.

Still another change gives handlers more flexibility in diverting excess supplies off the market to plants for manufacturing use. The unregulated areas in the Ohio counties of Ashland, Lorain, and Medina also will be added to the order's marketing area.

Copies of the amended order may be obtained from Market Administrator C.C. Taylor, P.O. Box 30128, Cleveland, Ohio 44130; or from the Dairy Division, AMS, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250.

AEB nominations due

NEW YORK, N.Y. – Certified egg producer organizations are being asked to nominate prospective members and alternates to the American Egg Board, by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The 18-member board administers the Egg Research and Promotion Order authorized by the Egg Research and Consumer Information Act of 1974.

The nominations, due Sept. 30, are to fill upcoming vacancies caused by the expiration of terms for nine members and their alternates at the end of 1978. The new terms will be for calendar years 1979 and 1980.

The members from the Northeast whose terms expire at the end of this year are: Norman J. Recht, Walden, N.Y. and Albert J. Russo, Hope Valley, R.I.: Emanuel Hirth, Manchester, Conn., and Homer Simpson, Jr., Winthrop, Me.

These board members may be renominated. Under the terms of the Act, members are eligible to serve three consecutive terms. Nominations are to be made by the 59 egg producer organizations, associations, or cooperatives certified as eligible by the secretary of agriculture.

The Egg Research and Promotion Order provides that certified organizations within an area can meet for the purpose of jointly nominating members and alternates. Nominations should be sent to John C. Pierce, director, Livestock, Poultry, Grain, and Seed Division, Agricultural Marketing Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.
